Presenting: The Poetry of Student Life

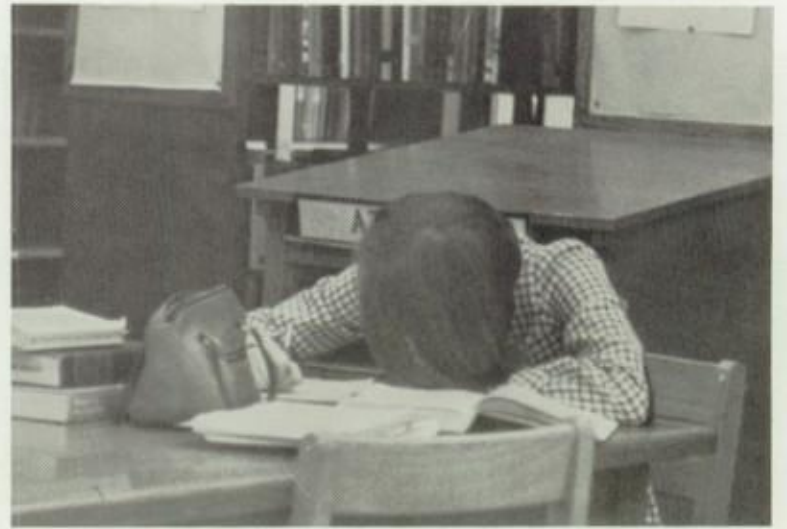

Student life is real,
Seen daily through diversified faces,
Alike yet different.
Expressions beyond the scope of forms and words--
Conveying thoughts and emotions to others;
The twinkle of enjoyment,
A worried glance,
That bewildered look.
Focusing on fun, development, achievement,
We face many rainbows after rains.
Struggling for success, many fall,
Only to smile and try again.
We find ourselves looking for answers;
A purpose, the future,
Only to be aided by each other--
Friends helping while we search--forever?

Student life . . .
The sphere of clothes, friends, and books
Is a part of us--but only if we let it be.
So open your hearts now
As we walk through the past year,
Because between these two covers we find,
The poetry of student life.

Learning Is: Seeing Much

Suffering Much, Studying Much

Learning is:

Seeing much;

A lot to be learned, only by viewing--
Watching an experiment,
A demonstration on the board,
All adding to our knowledge.

Seeing our mistakes, and correcting them.
Seeing when we're wrong, what's right.

Suffering much;

Knowing that the truth may hurt,
We plunge into our problems.

Regretting our indolence--

Sorry we didn't do our homework,
Our grades suffer.

Sorry we got caught skipping,
Because, again our averages lower.

Struggling through, faltering a lot--
We come out on top.

Studying much;

Struggling through the night,
We know brings joy the next day.

Competition aiding us,

We fight to beat the other fellow.

Sleepless nights, writer's cramp, tired minds,
All not unfamiliar happenings.

Seeing our mistakes,

Suffering from them,

Learning from them--

Constitute our high school years.

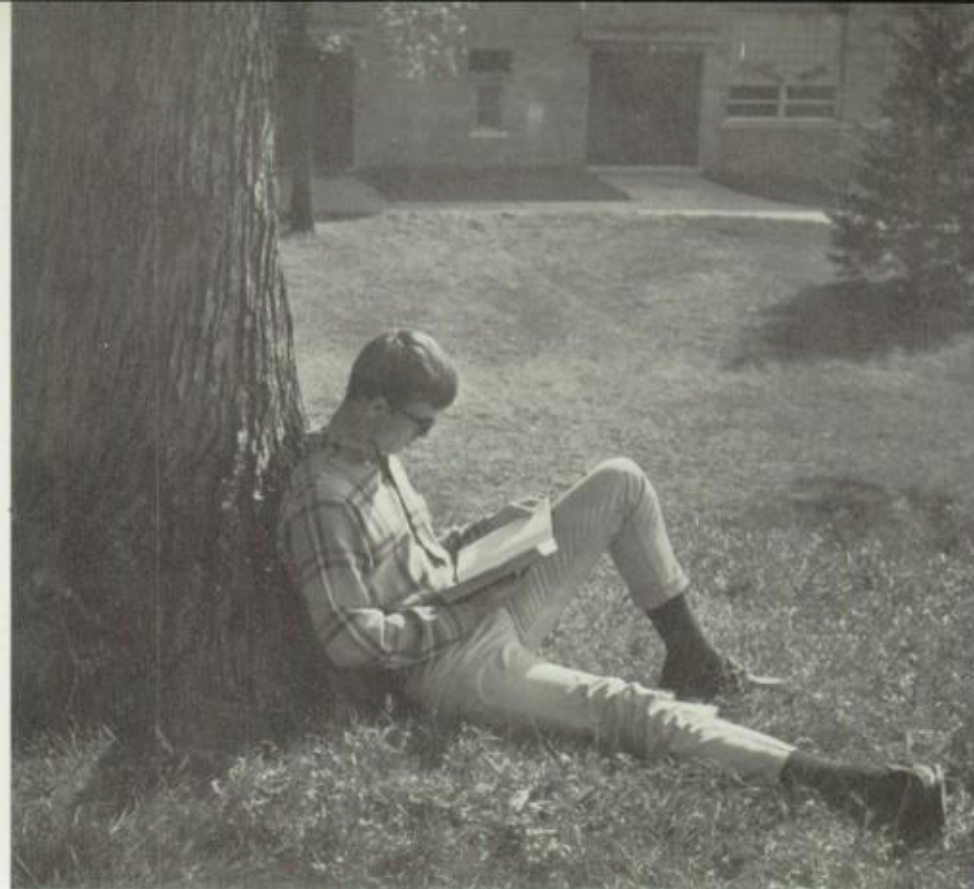

There Can Be No Rainbow

Without a Cloud

Clouds seem to be everywhere
these days
the regular forms of cirrus or nimbus are non-existent--
Desolation, Despair, and Disappointment instead.
What else? In this day and age what else can we expect?
Without clouds and storms, rainbows wouldn't be couldn't be.
The sky can hold only so many-- then rain, then blue.
Thank God for rainbows . . .
Without them we could never make it.
They may not always appear as often as we would like,
But they come.
Sometimes I think they play games
with us,
--testing our endurance.
It's all we can bear just waiting.
Some people wait forever--hoping to see just one.
Others see too many-- they're lucky
For most of us they appear in time--
Keeping us going
--even through the clouds.

The Means of an Education

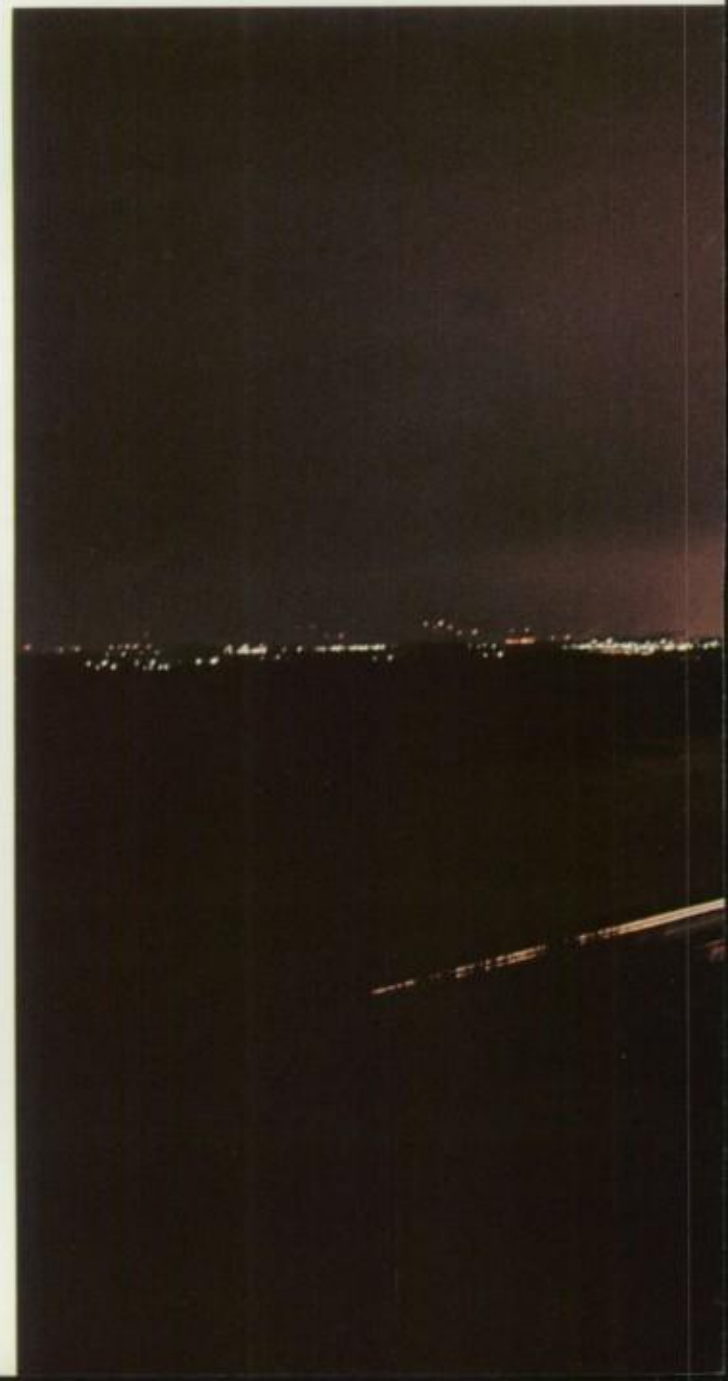

School--who needs it?
 We don't--unless
 We wish to be other than a nothing.
 Quit talking of the future,
 Just live for today.
 Be carefree, relax,
 For if you think of tomorrow,
 You'll regret today.
 Today's world--a complex mess;
 Yet we must enter it and try to add.
 But will our contribution help,
 Or just add another problem?
 Our education,
 Important in different ways;
 To some, a way to keep warm in winter,
 Others go to get out of working,
 Many like to see teachers in agony,
 And yet, a few see--
 The means of an education.
 Placing the future on their laps,
 Giving them a future others would like
 But are too lazy to obtain.
 Studying--to learn all they can,
 For many haven't our opportunity.
 Learning can't be forced,
 We can be shown the way,
 But can't be forced to take it.
 Only a few realize that Central is only . . .
 The means of an education.

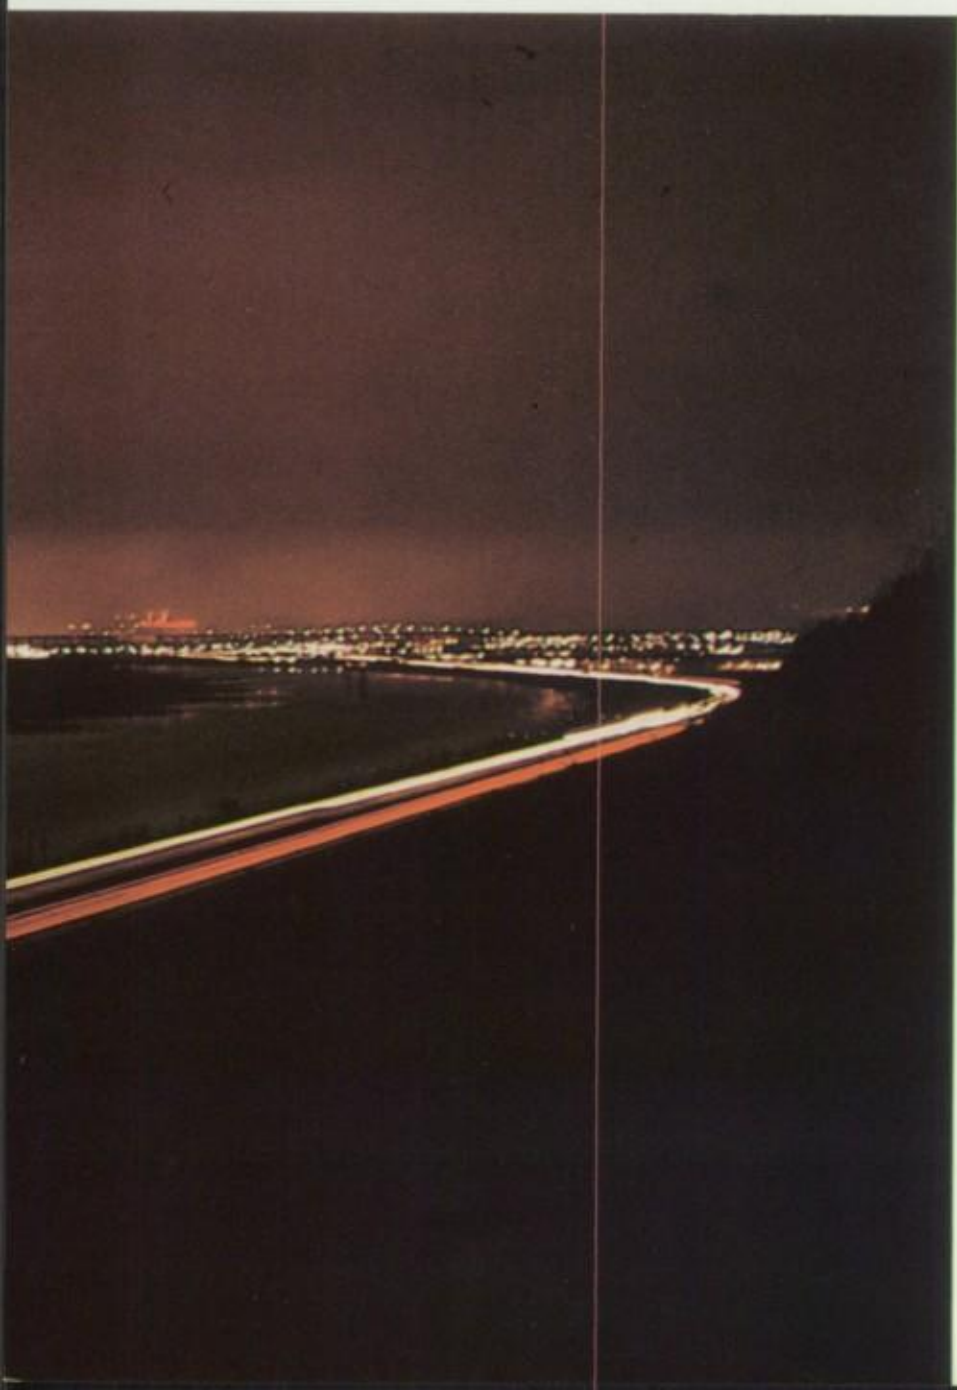

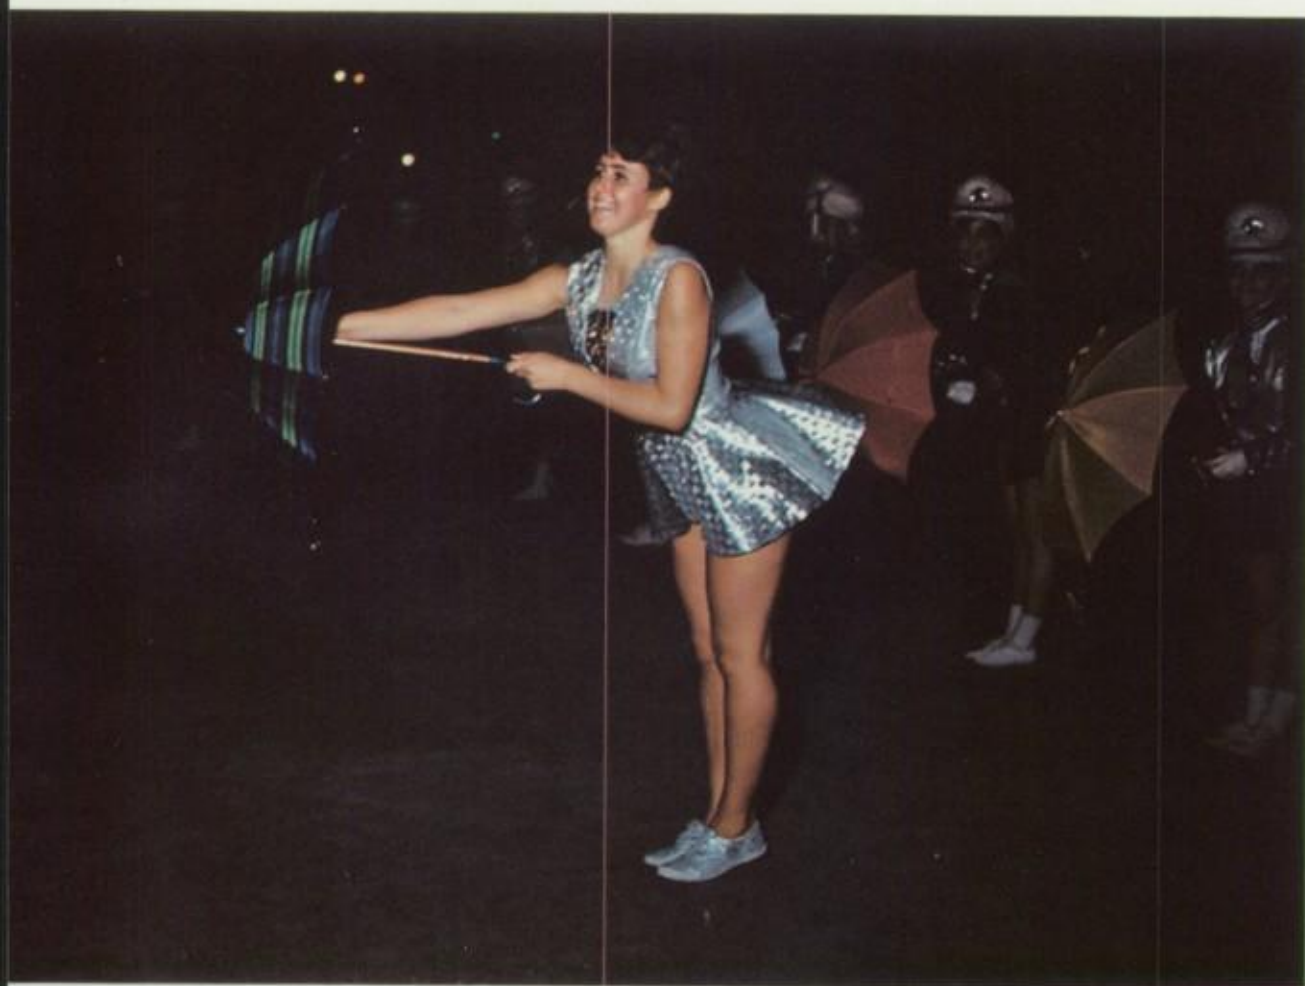

We Shall Not Pass

This Way Again

During our life at the castle,
We find many new experiences,
Bringing with them sorrow and joy.
Memories of friends cloud our hearts,
Yet we push onward.
The ancient walls try, but fail
To protect us from the world
We're about to enter.
Memories and dreams come to mind;
Homecoming, parking space problems,
deadlines, Macs, Mr. A trips, assemblies, vacations, tests, book fines, clock-watching, bug collections, fire drills, Prom,
That special someone . . .
The retracing of priceless moments,
The pride in looking back
Make it all seem worthwhile.
Unconscious dreaming, planning, hoping,
Personal desires, ambitions,
Make us look to the future with anticipation--
For we shall not pass this way again.

Laughter, excitement, anticipation--
Discourse in the crowd,
All friends,
 yet strangers milling together.

Memories of special moments . . .
The awaited date at Homecoming,
The smell of feet at dances,
Thunderous applause for a special talent,
The tearful smile of a queen,
The beauty in sleeping out of doors,
All blended together and slowly fading away.

Trying to make each moment last,
We sometimes try too hard,
Though each lingers in our hearts--
 As moments to remember.

Homecoming Royalty Reigns Over Fantasyland

Centralites took a magic carpet ride through the land of Mother Goose and Fairy Tales as the 1968 Homecoming got under way. This year's theme stimulated the childhood imagination in ideas for the assembly, parade, and dance.

In true nursery rhyme fashion, Jack and Jill, portrayed by Pete Farley and Mary Gregori, announced the king and queen of the Castle and the presiding court. Seated among six fanciful booths, the Homecoming royalty viewed the talent of the "kingdom". Following the intended theme, such original slogans as WE DON'T MUFFET and GOOSE THE WARRIORS topped colorful floats. The festive dance found Central's students triumphant with their overwhelming victory against Sioux Falls Washington.

Carol Suttie, Ann Greenstone, Ann Warner, and Robin Holtze give a special hint to the team during the parade.

The faces of a vivacious Central couple reflect the enchantment of an evening at the Fairyland Ball.

"Off to work we go," sing dwarfs Carol Jones and Charlie Heinke as they busy themselves during the assembly.

Homecoming Dreams Become Reality

Centralites launched into the land of fantasy for Homecoming '68. Dressed as fairyland characters, the assembly cast helped set the stage of a carnival celebration in honor of King Leo Heilman and Queen Jeri Barnum. Even Humpty Dumpty and the White Rabbit made their appearance. Top honors in the Homecoming parade went to Friendship, for beauty; Youth for Christ, for cleverness; and Spanish Club, for sweepstakes.

With a clean sweep over Sioux Falls Washington, Central's Little Maroons completely humiliated the Warriors by a "48--0" victory. When Saturday night arrived, a proud student body flocked to the Homecoming dance at the Sioux City Auditorium. A carousel of streamers towered above enthusiastic students as they danced to the fantastic sounds of "The Purple Valentine." At the stroke of midnight, the Homecoming spell was broken, but the memories linger on.

Checking a lengthy list, Mother Goose, Jane Glazer, hecticly surveys the festival preparations.

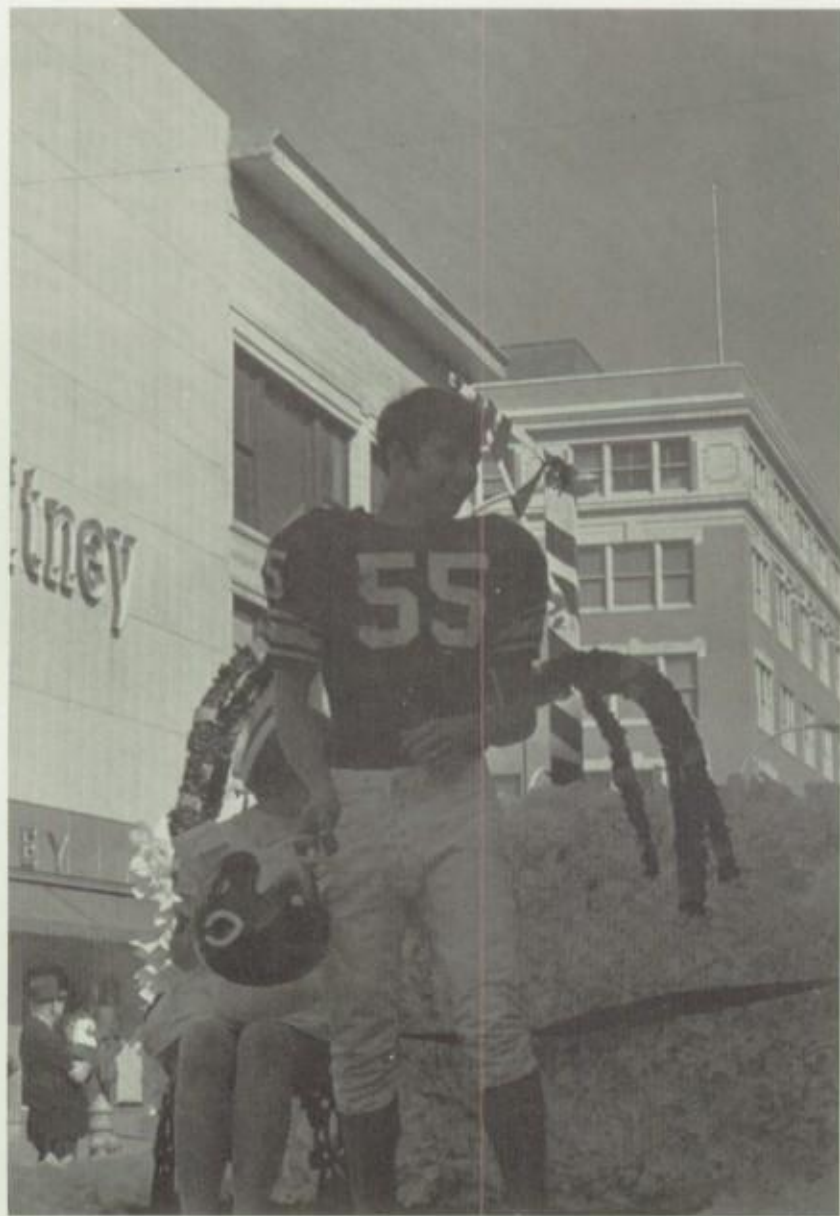

The beaming faces of Mike Smith and date exemplify the thrill of the Homecoming dance for all Centralites.

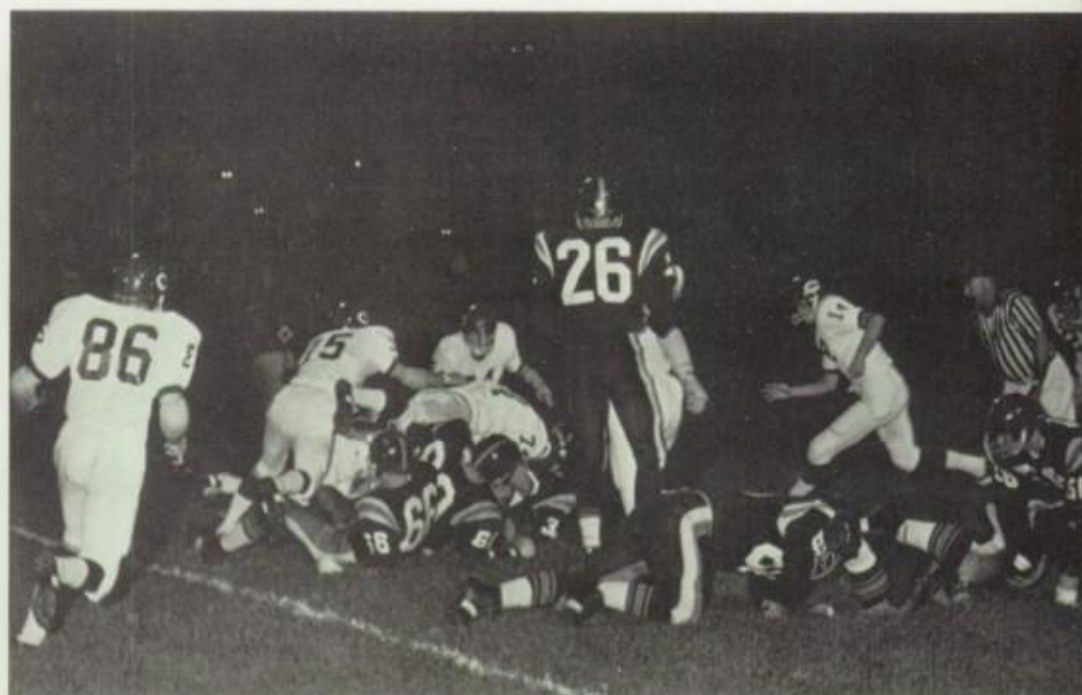

Portraying Munchkin talent, Debbie Jensen, Diane Brown, Jennifer Allen, and Shelley Streeter welcome Centralites to 1968's Homecoming.

Atop the winning sweepstakes float, Bob Wright protects Miss Muffet from the spider's grasp.

Sophomore Terry Snyder takes a peek at the crowd as he rides in the Y.F.C. float during the parade.

Knights and Ladies

Nobility Reigns Over Fantasyland

A score and four dignified Knights and charming Ladies paraded before the Central High School student body. As they took their seats, the 1968 Homecoming Assembly began; and Centralites proudly presented a variety of talent to the royal court.

Following a celebration snack at Edith and Joe's Restaurant, the couples returned to their royal castle. Then, after the long afternoon of classes, they rode triumphantly through Sioux City in the Fairyland Parade, which culminated their reign.

Kathy Anderson and Charlie Katherman climb into their pumpkin, which will carry them in the parade.

John Sullivan and his hanger, Sue Joslin, Charlie Heinke, Carol Jones, Steve Schneider and Sue Brown soak up the sun before class.

Knight Jim Hughes captures his lady Robbie Smith for a few minutes after the assembly.

Roger Jensen and Steve Mosher laugh at Kathy Kemp's antics while Kathy Fethke seems somewhat preoccupied.

Ladies Gayle Evans and Anita Krone and their escorts Paul Johnson and Stew Hartman pause at the edge of fairyland.

Dan Johnson, Patty MacDonald, John Renner and Sue Sleeper anticipate the coming festivities.

Knight Rick Boswell escorts Lady Sue Jones from the Castle as they leave to take their places in the parade.

Patty confers with several of the boys and wishes them the best of luck.

Cross-Country Queens

1968 Cross-Country Queens Selected

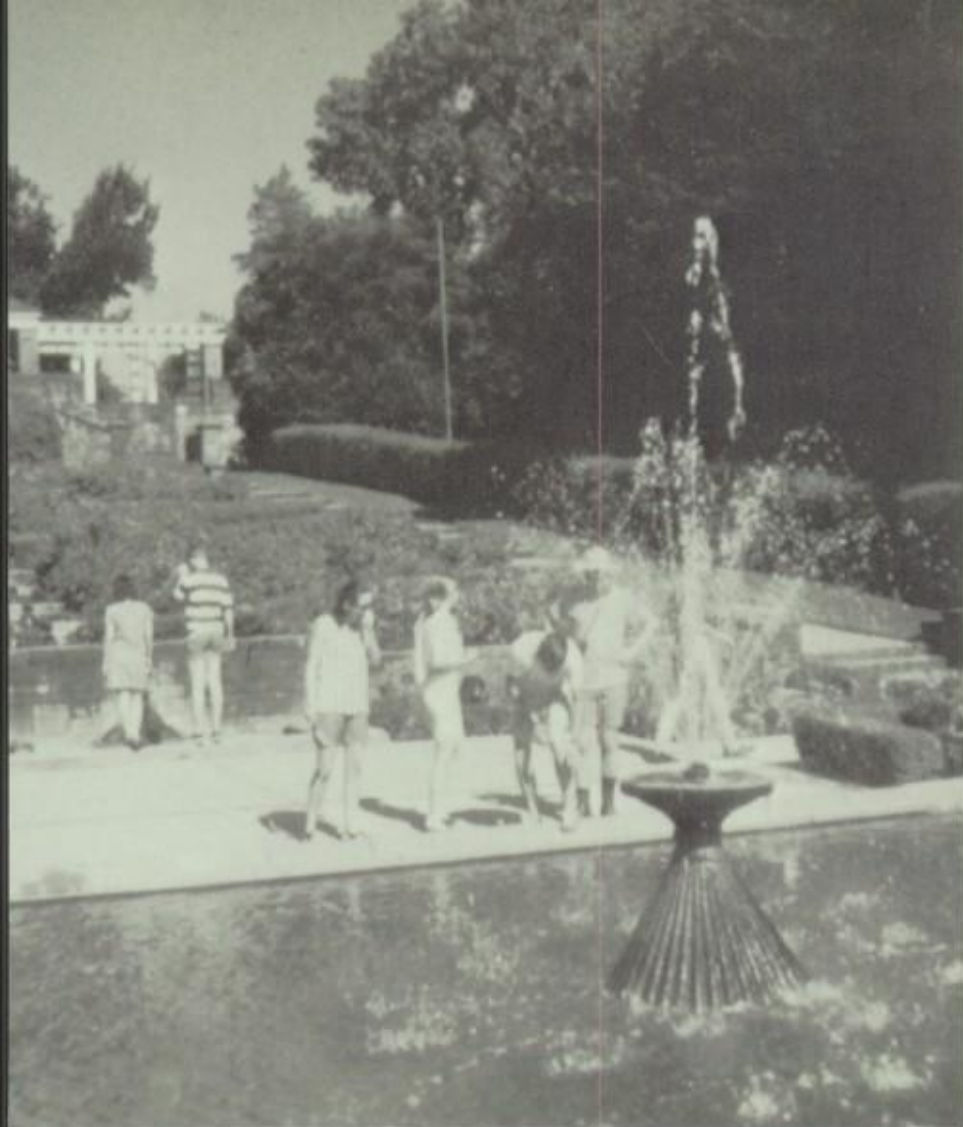

This year as in several years past, our cross-country team selected five senior girls as candidates for their queens. Patty Williams, Kathy Anderson, Pat MacDonald, Henrietta Williams, Kathi Fethke, and Sue Jones received this honor. On Tuesday, October 15, Patty Williams and Kathi Fethke became Central's 1968 Cross-Country Queens.

The team members entertained the two girls, who received corsages from the boys and crowns from Coach Provorse. In a breach of tradition, they all saw a movie and attended a feast at Shakeys afterwards. On the following Monday Kathi and Patty presided over the annual Tom Rivers Meet, the climax of their reign.

Standing on the edge of the course, Kathi anxiously awaits the results of the varsity meet.

Biology Trips

Summer Field Trips Enrich Student Life

June 6th forty-two students eagerly headed for the Southwest. After three days of scorching heat on Padre Island, the group met with hospitality and hot showers in Dilley, Texas. Following an afternoon in Mexico, they journeyed to Big Bend National Park, the Great Sand Dunes, and Carlsbad Caverns. A change of climate became a relief in the Rocky Mountains, where a strenuous hike 2,500 feet up terminated fifteen days of Southwestern adventure.

Crossing the border into Mexico and Central America, Panama enthusiasts, Mr. A. and eleven students, equipped themselves with two truck campers. Mexico City highlights consisted of a bullfight, a folklore ballet, and the site of the Olympic games. Surprisingly enough, two days after climbing in a volcano in San Jose, Costa Rica, it erupted. In Panama they visited the canal and a banana plantation. After thirty-eight days an enthralled group returned home on August 4th.

With his pants revealing the pickpocket's skill, Mr. Asmussen surveys Panama City where his wallet was stolen.

Almost camouflaged by the scenery, enthusiastic hikers take a rest before continuing up the Rockies.

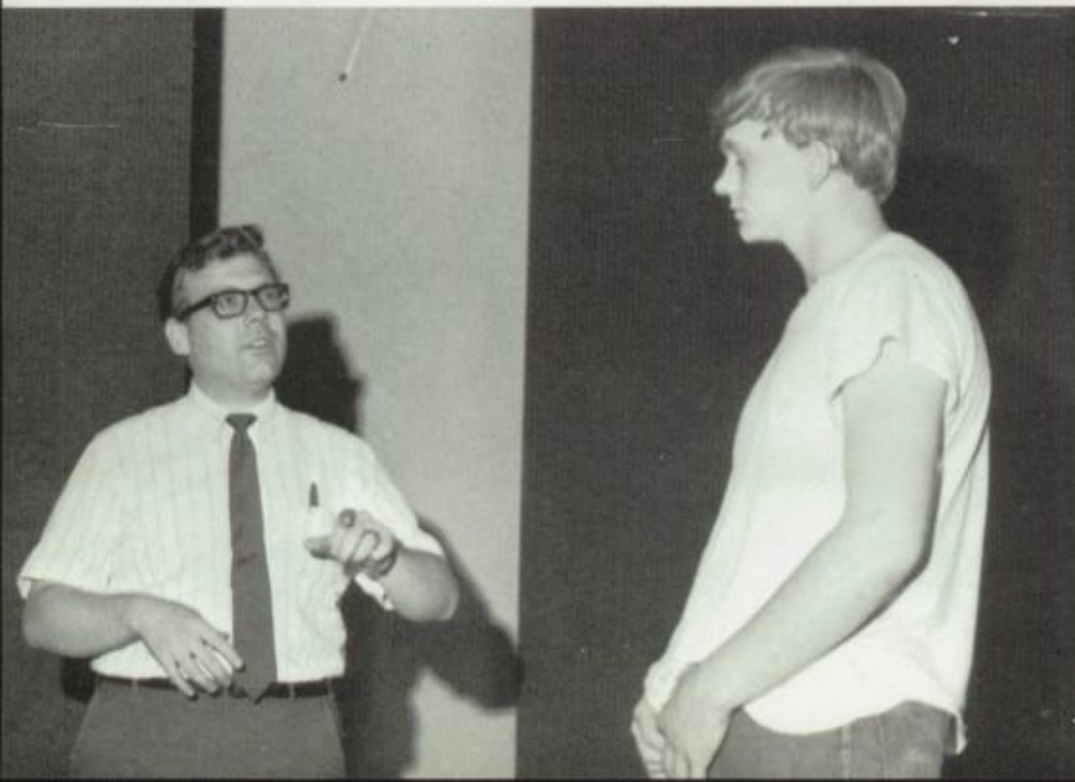

Plays, Drama Club Drama Department Presents Talents

Presented December fifth and sixth by the Dramatics department, THE RAIN-MAKER, a romantic comedy in three acts, constituted this year's first school play. At the time of a paralyzing drought in the West, the plot concerned a girl whose father and two brothers worried as much about her becoming an old maid as they did about their dying cattle. With the coming of the Rainmaker, Bill Starbuck, followed the solutions to both problems. Directed by Mr. Guinty, the cast included Mark Levine, Peter Farley, Dana Knepper, John Knepper, Mary Gregori, Steve Scott, and Bill Beuttler portraying Bill Starbuck, (Pop) H. C. Curry, Noah Curry, Jim Curry, Lizzie Curry, Deputy File, and Sheriff Thomas, respectively.

Though only in its second year, Drama Club boasted fifty members under the leadership of President Pete Farley, Vice-President John Knepper, Secretary Steve Scott, and Treasurer Nancy Verstegen. Working hard to promote more dramatic activities and assist in play production, the club met Fridays after school in the Little Theatre. As a result of their efforts THE LOTTERY, a one act play under the direction of Pete Farley, formulated a cast and began rehearsals for an April performance in-the-round.

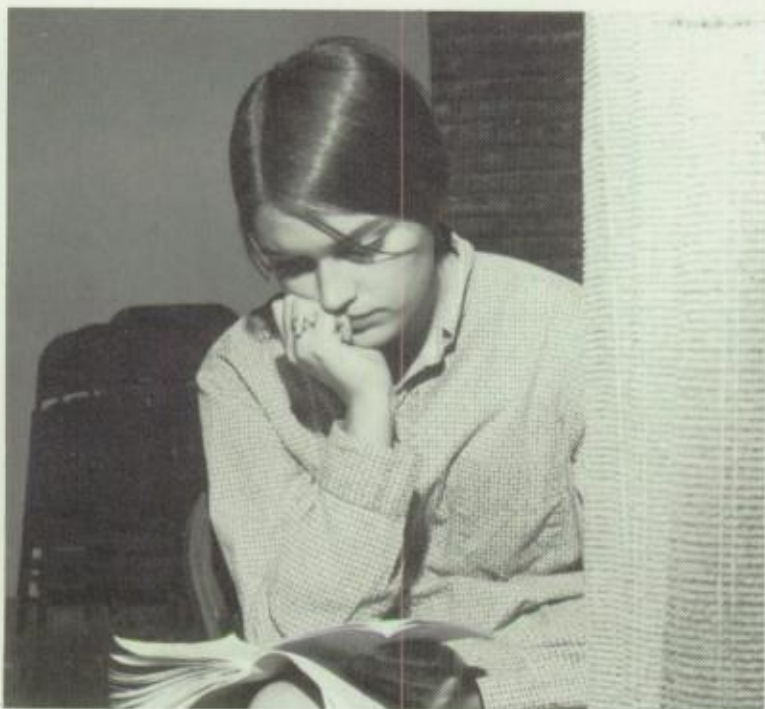

Drama Coach, Mr. Guinty, aids Steve Scott with some of the finer points.

Friendship Sweetheart Friendship Chooses Worthy Sweetheart

Everybody had one special sweetheart on Valentine's Day, and Friendship proved no exception. A background of giant red hearts with white ruffles set the stage for Sweetheart '69, Linda Zellmer, and her maid of honor, Barb Call.

A week before the actual crowning on February 13, Friendship members voted for thirteen girls from all senior members. Casting ballots a second time on the following day, the club chose their favorite sweetheart.

After each candidate had performed a bit of talent, Mary Ellen formally introduced them to the anxious crowd. With the Sweetheart crowned and her court seated, Randi MacNicol and Becky Wallace each sang. For Linda, February 13 became her "Once upon a time".

Assembly's, Dances, and Fads

Three Aspects of Castle Life

Within every establishment there exists certain things designed to hold the interests of various types of people. Assemblies, dances, and fads create a unique situation for Centralites. It enables them to either become completely involved, partially involved, or fully abstained from any, or all of these categories. For a student to "do his thing and do it right" has become an important factor in the formation of his character. The three years a student spends at the Castle helps him become aware of the kind of participant he wishes to be.

It seems that this couple can enjoy themselves at a Central dance without the beat of the band.

While the majority of Centralites scurry around the castle, Steve Lewis can be found in his own dream world.

Centralities Participated

The Seven Sons set a psychedelic scene for the Breakers '69 semester break dance.

A result of Mr. "A's" summer trips is the latest combat boot fad.

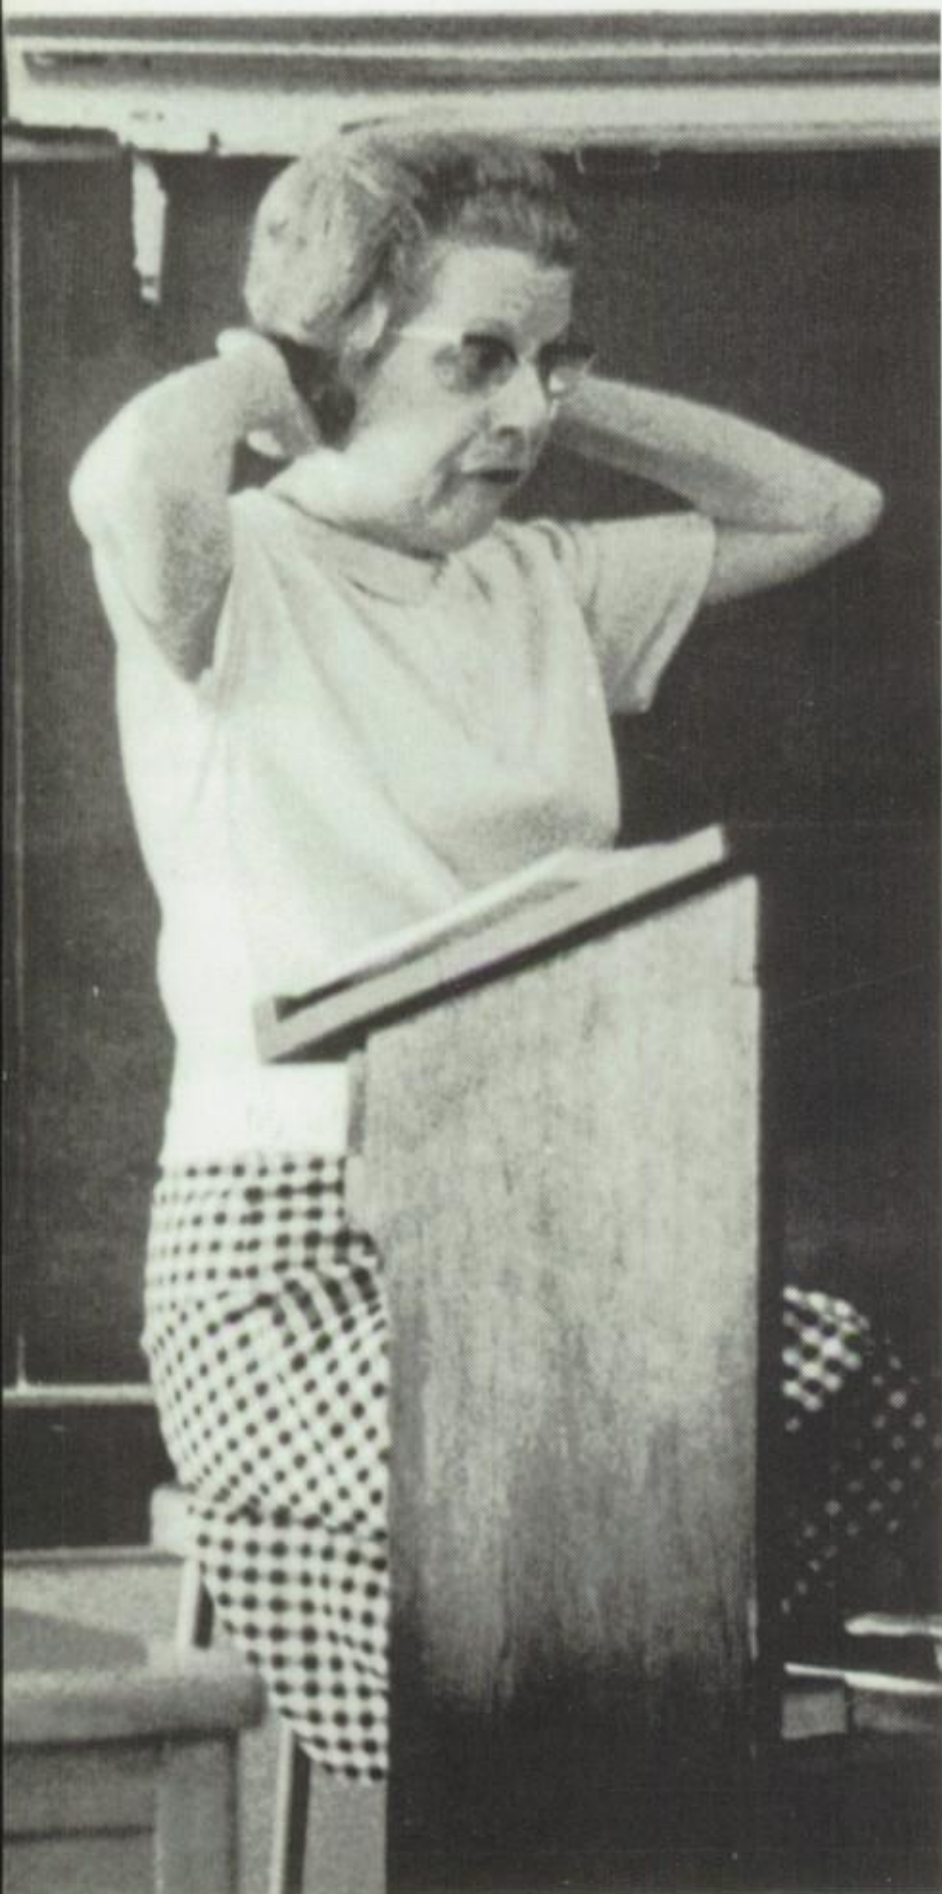

Senior, Brad Hansen displays his latest "garb" while he takes a pensive pose before going to band practice.

Pat Forney concentrates on putting forth an important point during the Peace Corps Assembly.

Here lies the soul of the Castle,
 A world in this world lies our school--
 Far away from things we've long known,
 From what we'd come to believe in so strongly.
 We learn to choose for ourselves--
 When to go . . . Where to be . . . What to do--
 In a time of dreaming, planning, deciding,
 In a world of our own.

The desire for comprehension persists among us,
 Aided by our faculty, who create the image.
 Challenged to keep pace with increasing demands,
 Our faculty patiently guides us--
 A smile of encouragement,
 Silence at failure,
 After school hours,
 A personal concern--
 Aiding to further our future--whatever . . .
 Hungaring for knowledge,
 We are aided in the search--
 For the pathway in the dark.

Teacher Dedication

A Proud Dedication to a Great Coach

"In basketball, he was a stellar guard who stymied many expert forwards with his guarding." Just twenty-three years ago Wally Piper had this great compliment bestowed upon him as the first recipient of the "best athlete of the year" award.

After his graduation from the castle in 1947, Mr. Piper found himself an active part of castle life once again in 1955. At this time, he no longer directly involved himself as an athletic participant. Rather, he now focused his attention on directing and guiding teams that he had once participated in.

Although Coach Piper has devoted most of his counseling to basketball, he has also shown a great deal of interest in other aspects of the castle.

In acknowledging a teacher that has generously contributed his knowledge as a government teacher and his tremendous skill as an athletic coach, Central High School takes great honor in dedicating the 1969 Maroon and White to Mr. Wally Piper.

Sharing his knowledge is the dominating factor of Coach Piper's busy life at Central.

Coach Piper takes great pride in directing his basketball team to compete to the best of their ability.

After putting in a full ten hour day, Coach Piper feels the stress and gets ready to head home.

Faculty

A member of the faculty proves that even teachers can have a good time.

Mr. Pitkin wonders if there is any truth to the story that blondes have more fun.

Mr. Theilmann becomes involved in a demonstration on the behavior of a monkey.

Mr. Vanderziel has arrived at the conclusion that experimentation is a vital part of the teaching process.

Principals

Principals Boast Successful Year

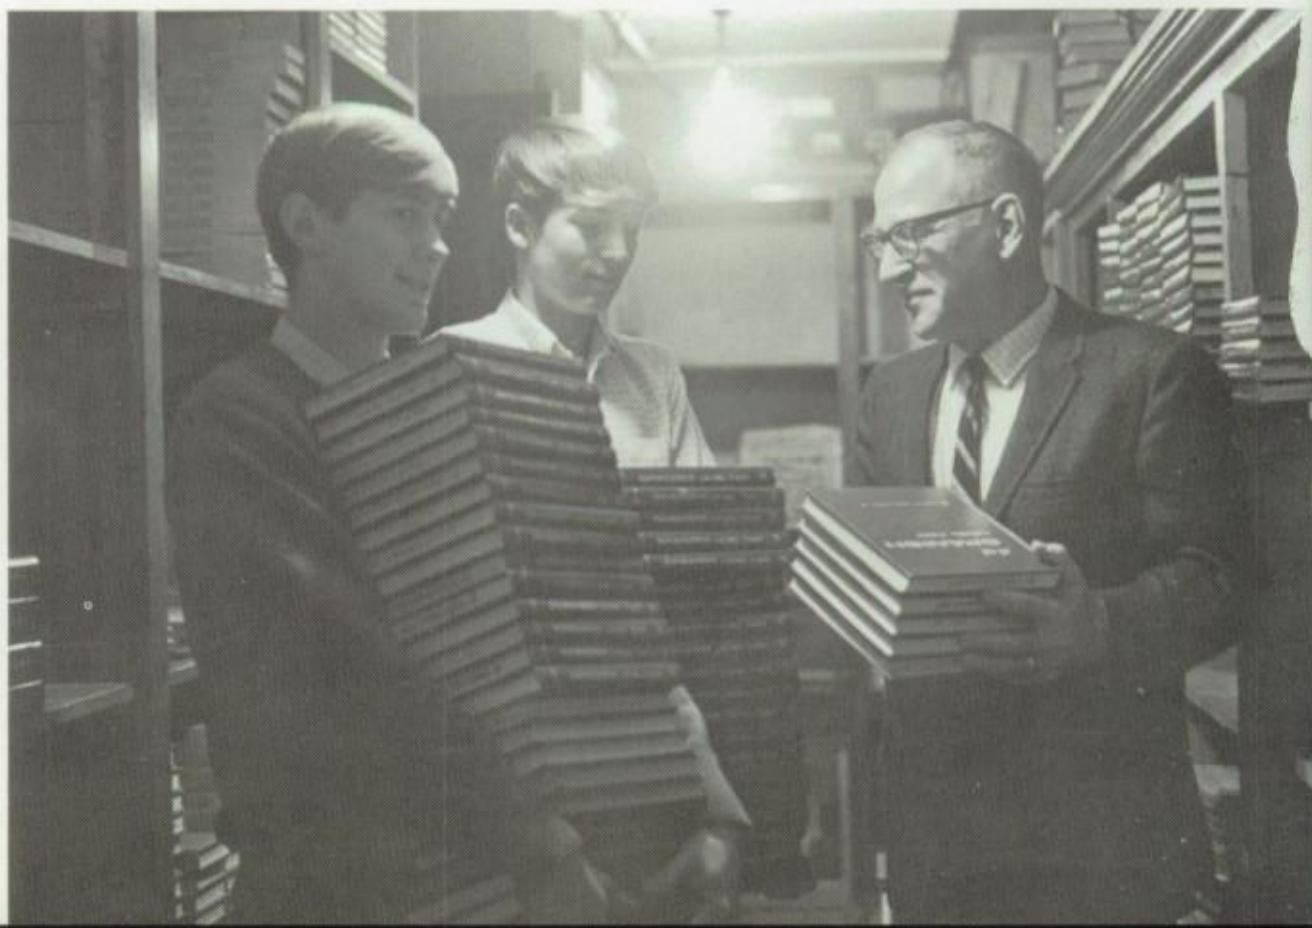

In its second year of existence, the subsistence of the tri-principal idea proved effective and worthwhile. According to statistics forwarded by Mr. Rogstad, the dropout rate had declined considerably since the new policy went into effect. He stated his reason for the decline in the dropout rate, "We have more time than ever before to devote to each student."

Each of the three class principals had general responsibilities: pupil accounting, discipline, records, class council, and staff supervision. Beyond these obligations lay specific ones that each principal fulfilled. Dr. Wendt took precedence in orientation, student clubs, public performances, practice teachers, Federal programs, and Student Council. The junior principal, Mr. Rogstad, headed student social activities, audio-visual, A.F.S., and the publications. As senior principal, Mr. Amundson foreran class rank, summer school, bookshop, student trips, debate, and seniors activities. Mr. Stevens, superior principal, headed activities and conditions concerned with the entire populace and faculty of Central.

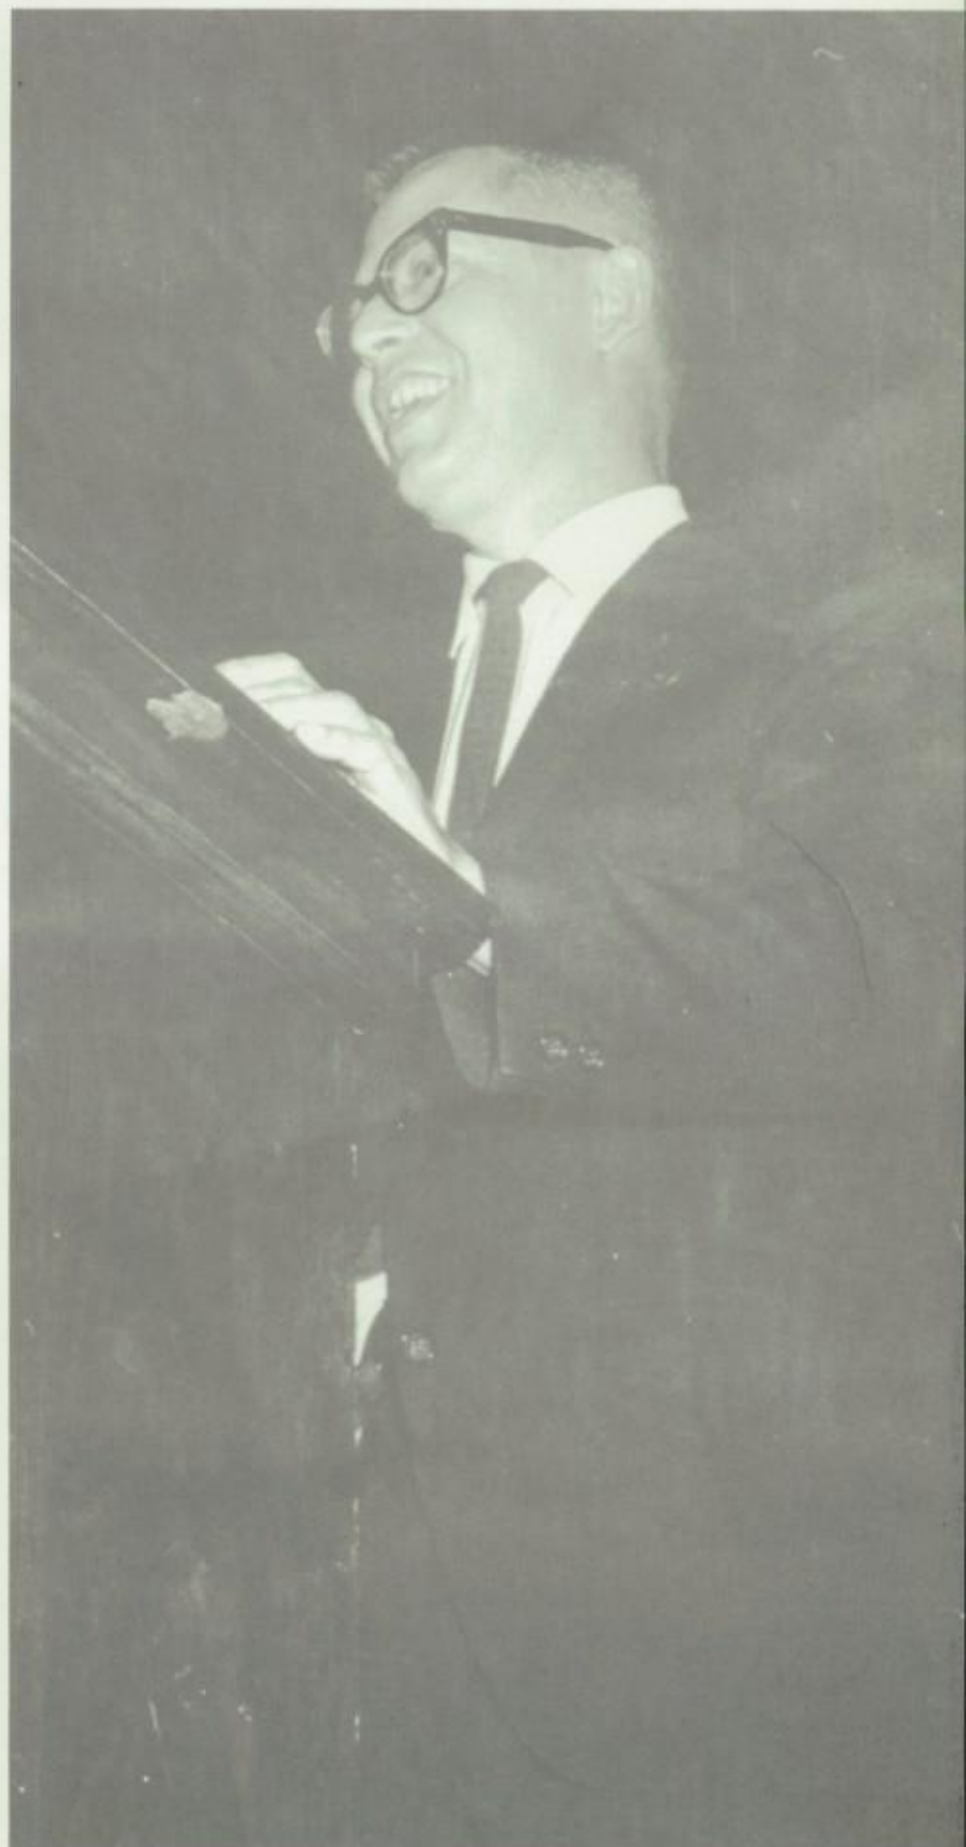

After a hard day's work, Mr. Stevens relaxes and plans for tomorrow.

Bill Towns and Chris Smith pay the price for being too eager in volunteering to carry books for Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Amundson listens while Student Council member Robin Rosenthal discusses a proposed project.

As Dr. Wendt welcomes the eager new sophomores, he radiates with happiness at their alertness.

Mr. Rogstad introduces Manoel Vidal to the American custom of eating ice cream cones.

Mr. Speraw demonstrates the use of the college view-deck to junior Joanne Fields.

Counselors

Students Guided by Counselor's Foresight

Mr. Speraw, acting as head counselor, served as one of seven capable faculty members who helped to shed light on students' futures. He became the bridge between the junior and senior counseling staffs and kept them working in a coordinated effort to further the students' education.

The two tenth grade counselors, Mrs. Clark and Mr. Hill, aided in making each sophomore's first year at the Castle a little less complicated and frightening. They also organized the internal testing programs. Enlightening the junior class to the responsibilities facing them in the coming years, Mrs. Downard and Mr. Gorseth assisted in arranging all the necessary aptitude tests.

The senior class counselors included Mrs. Clemens and Mr. Caviness. Finding a place in the world for the seniors became their task this year as they employed great patience and care by remembering the importance of the individual.

Seeking relief from Headache Number 675, Mr. Hill awaits another "problem child."

Performing one of her many duties, Mrs. Swift checks a name off of the eleventh grade absence list.

Office Help

Efficient Secretaries Strengthen School

Tending to all facets of school business, the office staff helped to keep Central running smoothly and efficiently. These women, working in all the offices at Central, helped to coordinate the three classes into a well-organized school.

Mrs. Quinlan, the registrar, worked at organizing student records and preparing student transcripts. The school's financial business served as the main concern of Mrs. Johnson, the bookkeeper, while Mrs. Talcott acted as the library clerk, a new position at Central this year. Four members of the staff, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Maxon, Mrs. Hilton, and Mrs. Swift, attended to the secretarial duties of the main and class offices.

Without these devoted women working diligently for Central, the business aspect would have lacked the orderliness and harmony that it had.

English

English Department Revises Courses

English II gave each sophomore a review of grammar and a wide background in all types of literature. Most classes studied Shakespeare's JULIUS CAESAR and read A TALE OF TWO CITIES. Though the topics covered remained the same, juniors chose which semester they wanted to take American literature or grammar and composition. Seniors had a choice of three courses, English literature, world literature, and advanced grammar and composition. This alteration allowed classes to cover the material in a more thorough and less confusing manner.

In speech class, students gained experiences to better equip them to meet the many demands for self-expression that will face them in the future. Besides studying the fundamentals of acting and stagecraft, drama students learned to enjoy, understand, and interpret drama.

Drama students Hyman Izbicki and Anne Warner promote THE RAINMAKER.

Miss Barker's English literature class responds to her lecture with enthusiasm and alertness.

Social Studies

Modern Teaching Method Adopted

Several American history classes employed an experimental teaching plan this year. Under the supervision of three teachers, these large classes, which met in the auditorium, occasionally divided into smaller groups for discussion.

American government dealt with the basic organization and functions of our government. Those students desiring a more complete course could enroll for a full year in American Government I, which included a study of the problems in government.

Students taking economics, another required course, were concerned chiefly with the description and analysis of the production, distribution, and consumption of goods and services. The biannual trip to Glenwood once again highlighted psychology, the study of the mind and behavior.

Economics students Karen Cannon, Brett Wood, Debbie Givot, and Pat Forney enjoy an intense game of Monopoly.

Languages

Students Shorten Language Gap

French and Spanish classes again continued with the Audio-Lingual Materials this year. First-year students concentrated mostly on the conversational language while the more advanced students also studied grammar, spelling, and literature.

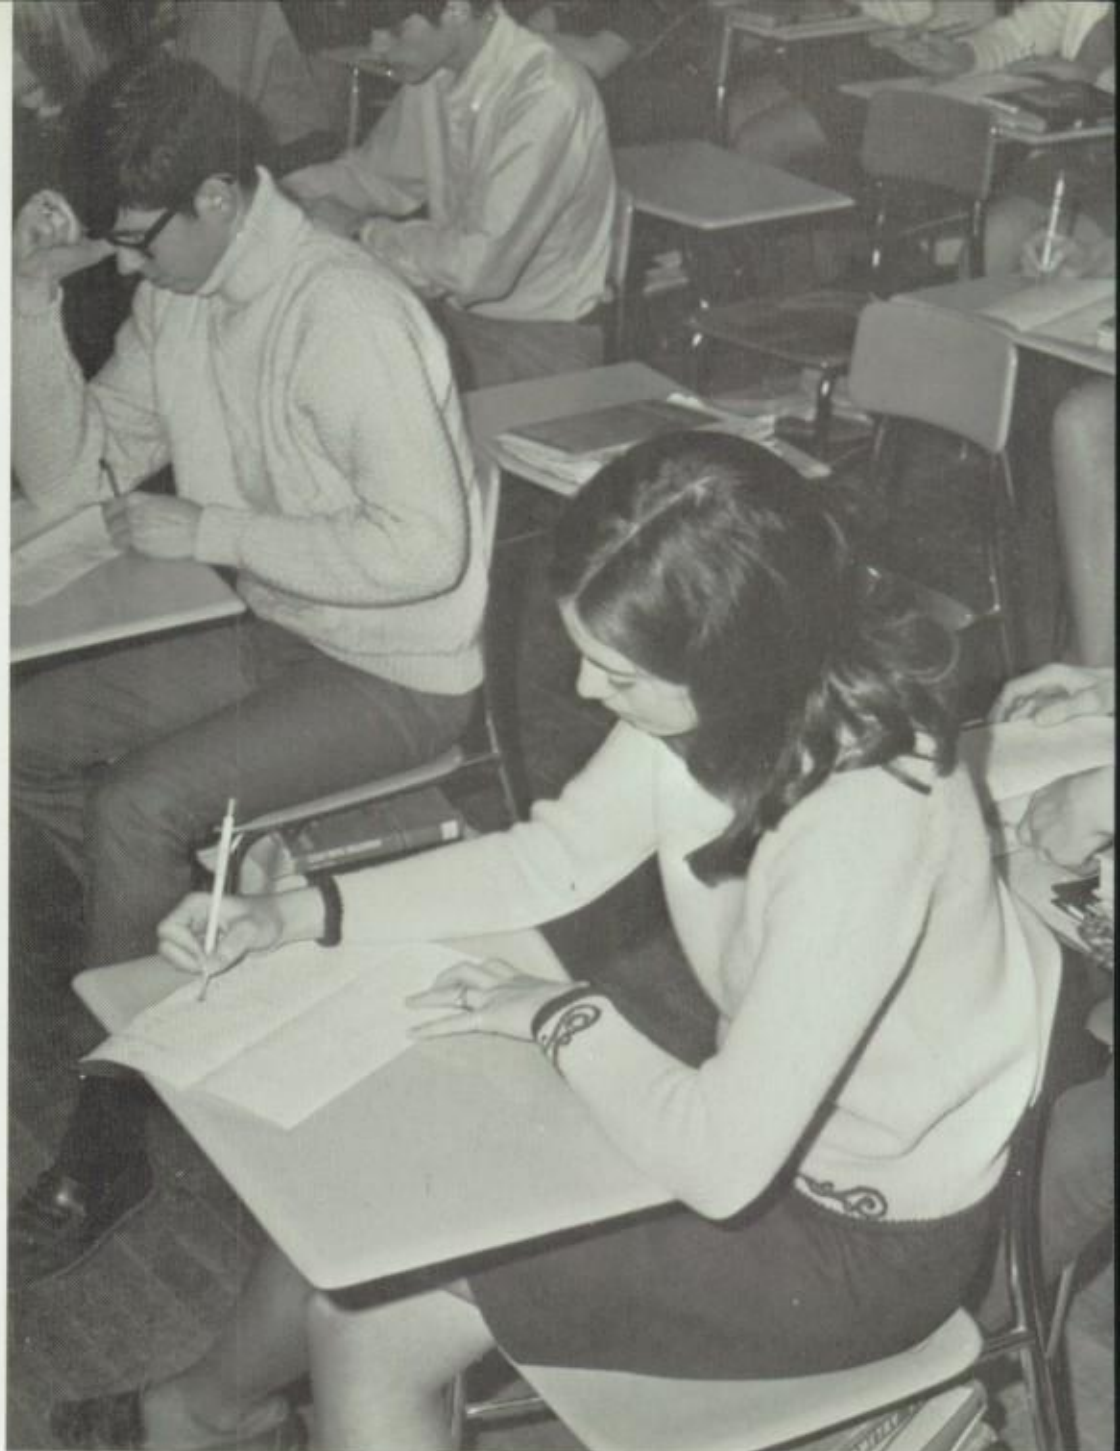

Latin benefited all students who took it, either as a basis for other languages or as a key to new English words. Advanced students taking Latin II, III, and IV all met in the same class and worked individually at their own speed. German classes mainly studied the oral and written language, learning grammar rules whenever necessary.

French IV students Denise Davin and Kathy Kemp learn some of the customs of France at their Christmas party.

Jim Morgenstern, Dave Metcalf, and Gene Johnson sing a rousing German folk song for their class.

Geometry students Debbie Miller and Sonia Stone discuss the Pythagoreom Theorem.

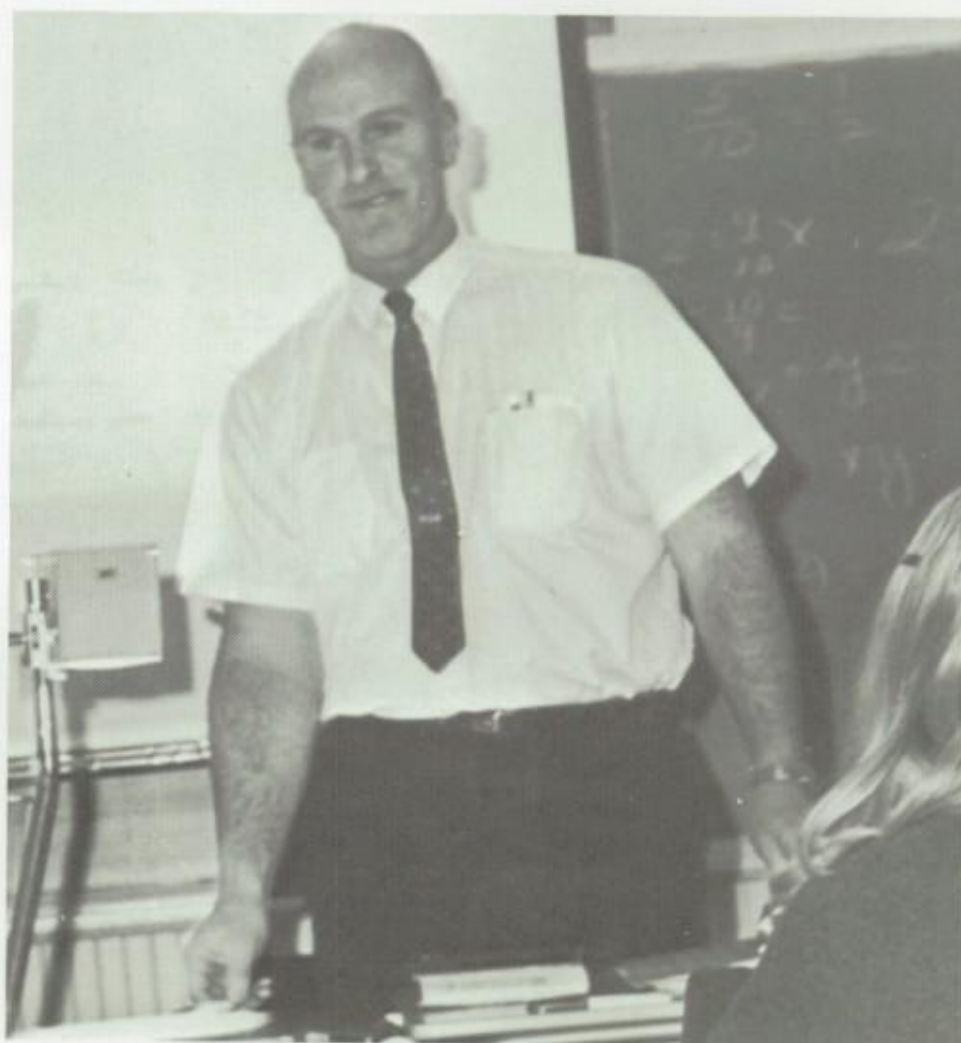

Mathematics

Students Solve and Analyze

From fundamental math to calculus, Central offered several mathematics courses. Some of them, students took for college requirements, but some students desired further skill in math.

Geometry dealt with theorems and postulates while Algebra I, the next step, dealt with equations, imaginaries, logarithms, and progressions. Algebra II followed and consisted of higher levels of the curriculum of Algebra I. Those students who wished to fulfill college requirements took Algebra II terminal, which lasted only one semester.

Trigonometry provided a background into technical fields while math analysis and calculus led the way for college-bound students to gain as much high school math as Central offered.

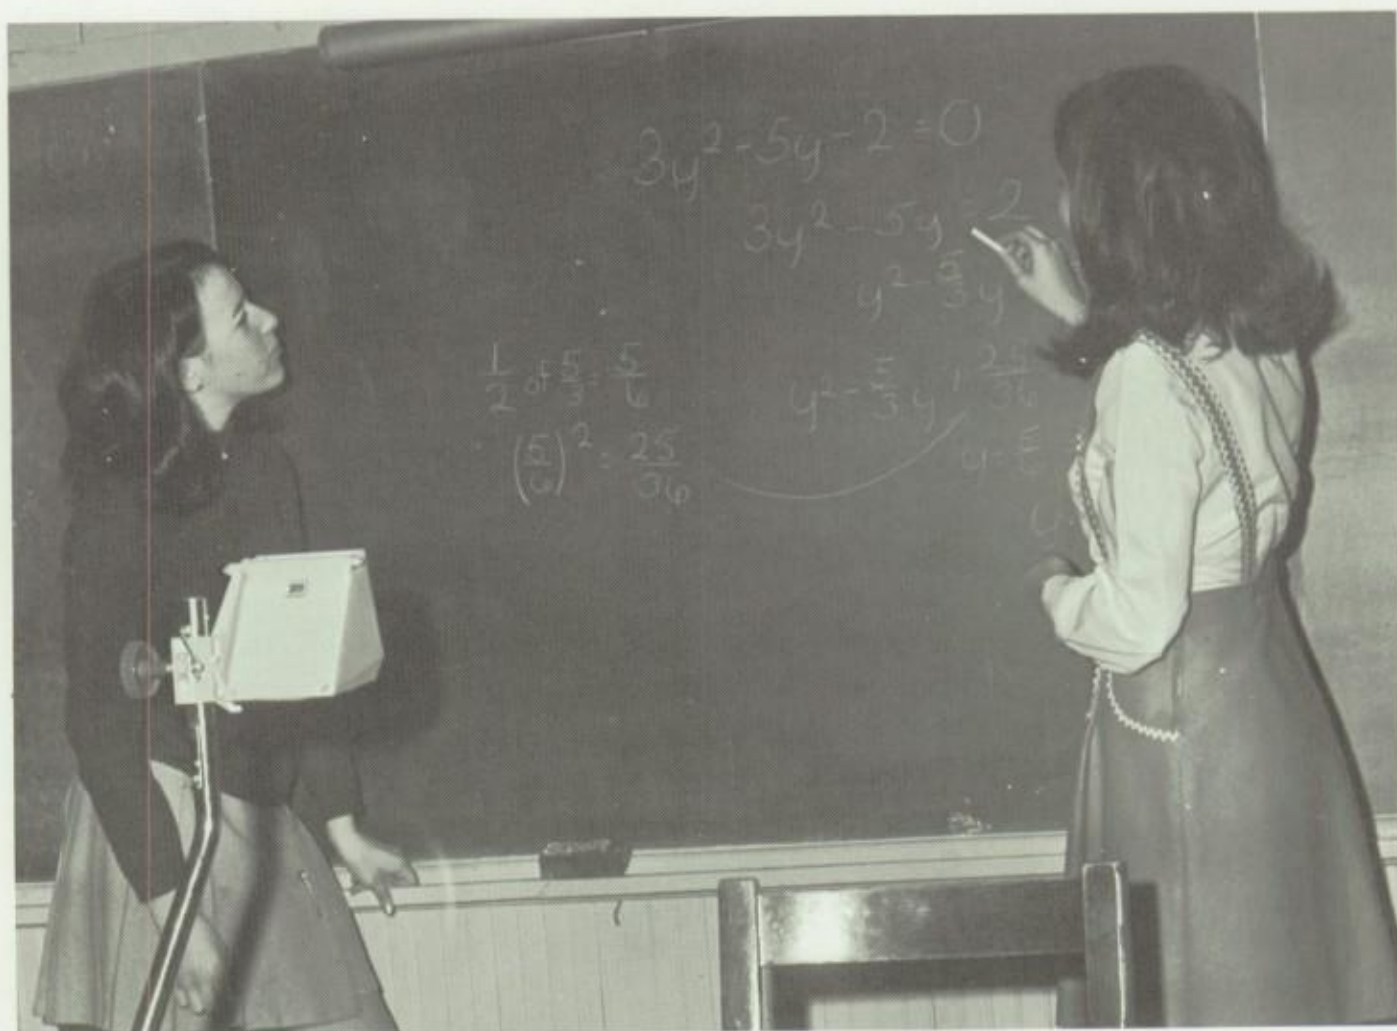

Mr. Alexander explains a calculus problem on the overhead projector.

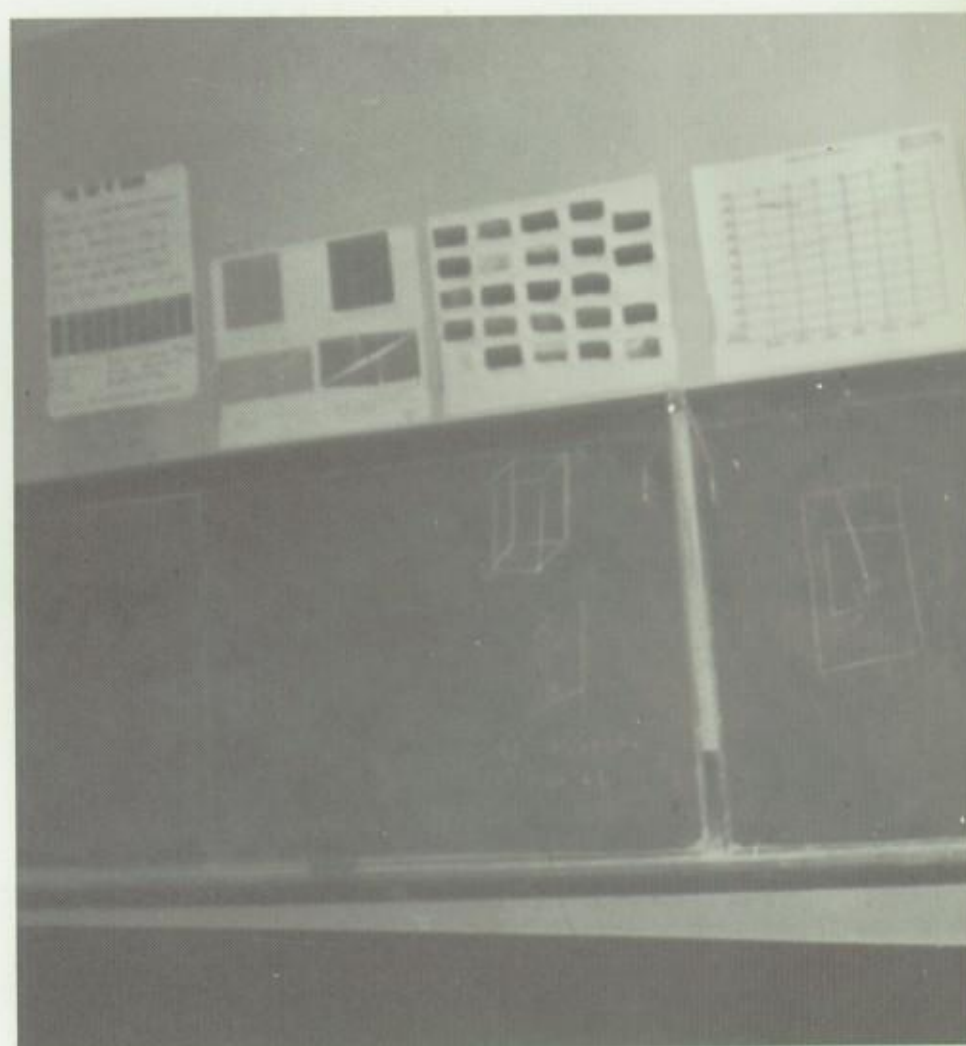

Trigonometry students proofread their test answers.

While Pat Harms explains each step of a difficult algebra equation, Cathy Johnson listens and concentrates.

Sciences

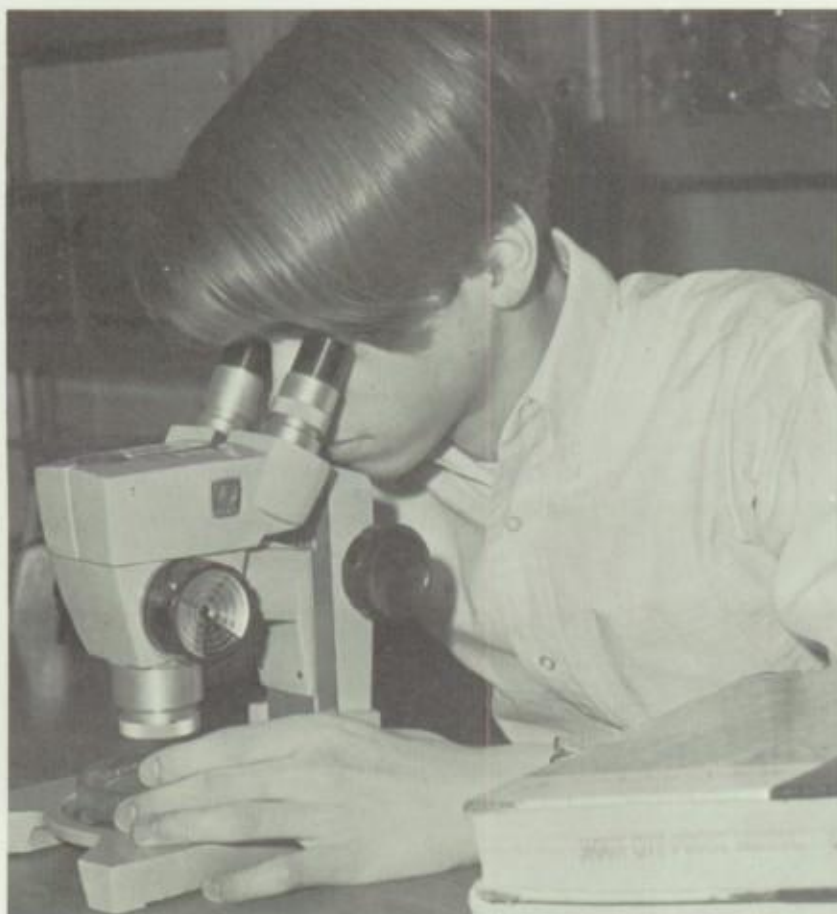

Lab Work

Aids Knowledge

Biology students undertook various projects such as dissecting, collecting leaves, insects and birds, and field trips. In its second year, Biological Sciences Curriculum Studies combined basic chemistry and biology concepts. For students interested in furthering their knowledge of biology, Biology II offered more challenging material.

Where traditional chemistry taught fundamentals, Chemical Education Material Study taught students to make their own discoveries and to make more comprehensive experiments. Physics, a college prep course, required previous math courses and dealt with very complicated, advanced material.

Designed for students not wishing to take full courses in chemistry or physics, physical or general science dealt with astronomy, meteorology, chemistry, physics, and electricity. A required course, health taught about the human body.

Business Education

Business education at Central involved both business courses and work-study programs. Students planning a career in this field could choose from a varied curriculum. Introductory business often served as a springboard to students planning to take such further courses as typing, shorthand, business law, bookkeeping, and office machines.

Some seniors chose to enroll in the work-study programs. After attending school in the morning, they worked at part-time jobs. This training proved a great benefit to the students as well as to the businesses.

Art and Music Gifted Students Apply Talents

For students interested in voice training, tenth grade choruses, Choir II, and Choir I or concert choir enabled these students to further develop their skills. As an after-school class, music theory gave the better-qualified singers a chance for advanced voice instructions.

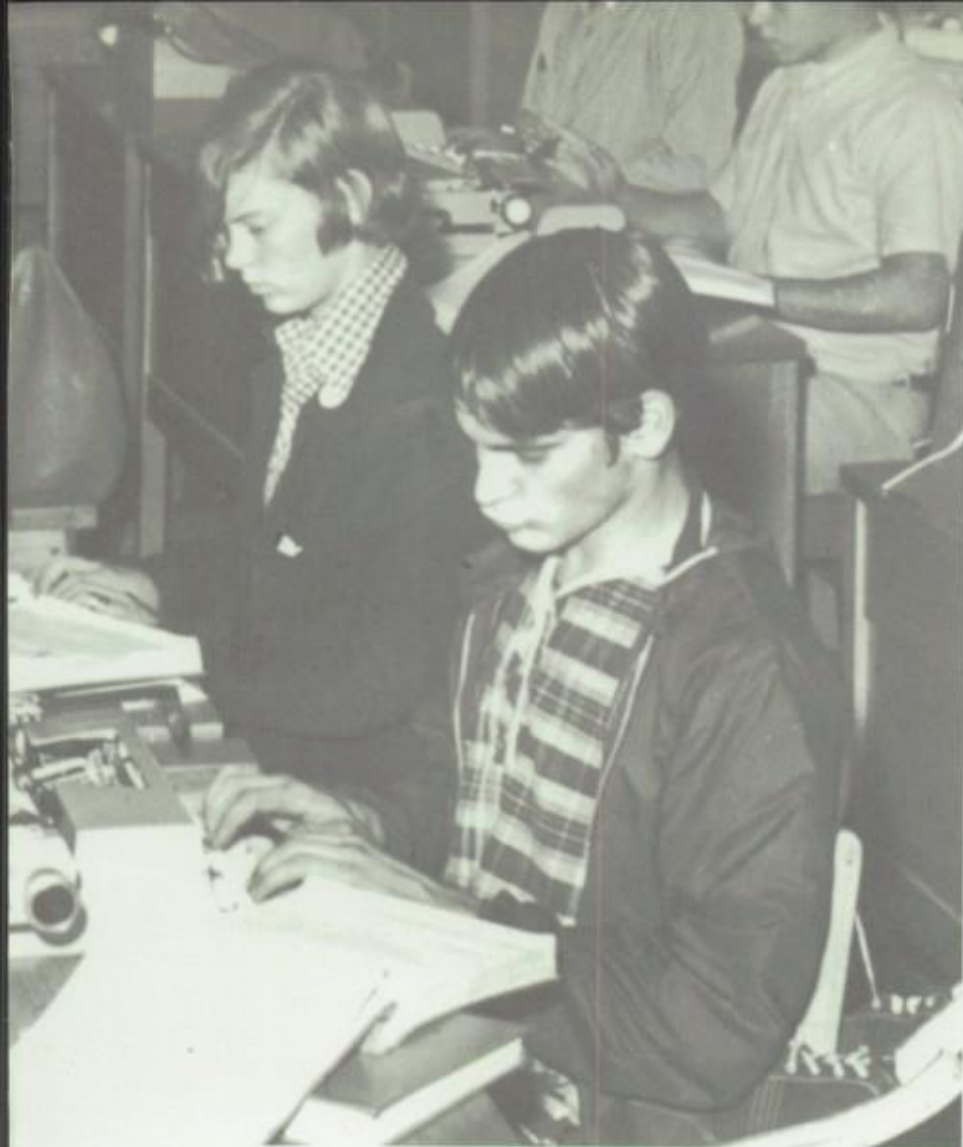

Junior band members could have risen into the varsity band, which performed during football half-times. Formed by the better band members and players of stringed instruments, the orchestra went on tours and gave concerts.

Fine arts dealt with fundamentals of drawing and painting while applied art concerned three dimensional design.

Commercial art mainly interested those who planned to undertake a career in advertising.

Industrial Arts Students Learn Technical Trade

Central's industrial program offered courses in auto, printing, drawing, welding, and electricity. Beginners in auto discovered the miracles of the automobile engine and its operation. Advanced auto students received more detailed teaching as well as shop training.

Printing gave students a chance to learn a technical trade that would prove valuable in the future. Electricity and welding both taught the intricacies of delicate skills.

Those students taking drawing took two types, mechanical and architectural. The latter provided a sound basis for a career in architecture for those who wanted it.

Home Economics Girls Practice for the Future

Varying levels of the clothing course gave the girls who chose this field an opportunity to develop their skills for personal or professional use. The advanced classes undertook more difficult assignments as they constructed ensembles and studied certain fabrics more thoroughly.

The foods course centered on cooking meals and on the nutritional aspects of foods. Later, the care of equipment and family meal planning appeared on the agenda.

For training in the child development course, the girls learned methods of caring for young children. Using dolls for babies, they learned how to hold them properly, how to feed them, and how to change diapers. Home planning study aided in better preparation for a girl's life as a homemaker.

Driver Ed., Reading Lab

Students Learn Useful Skills

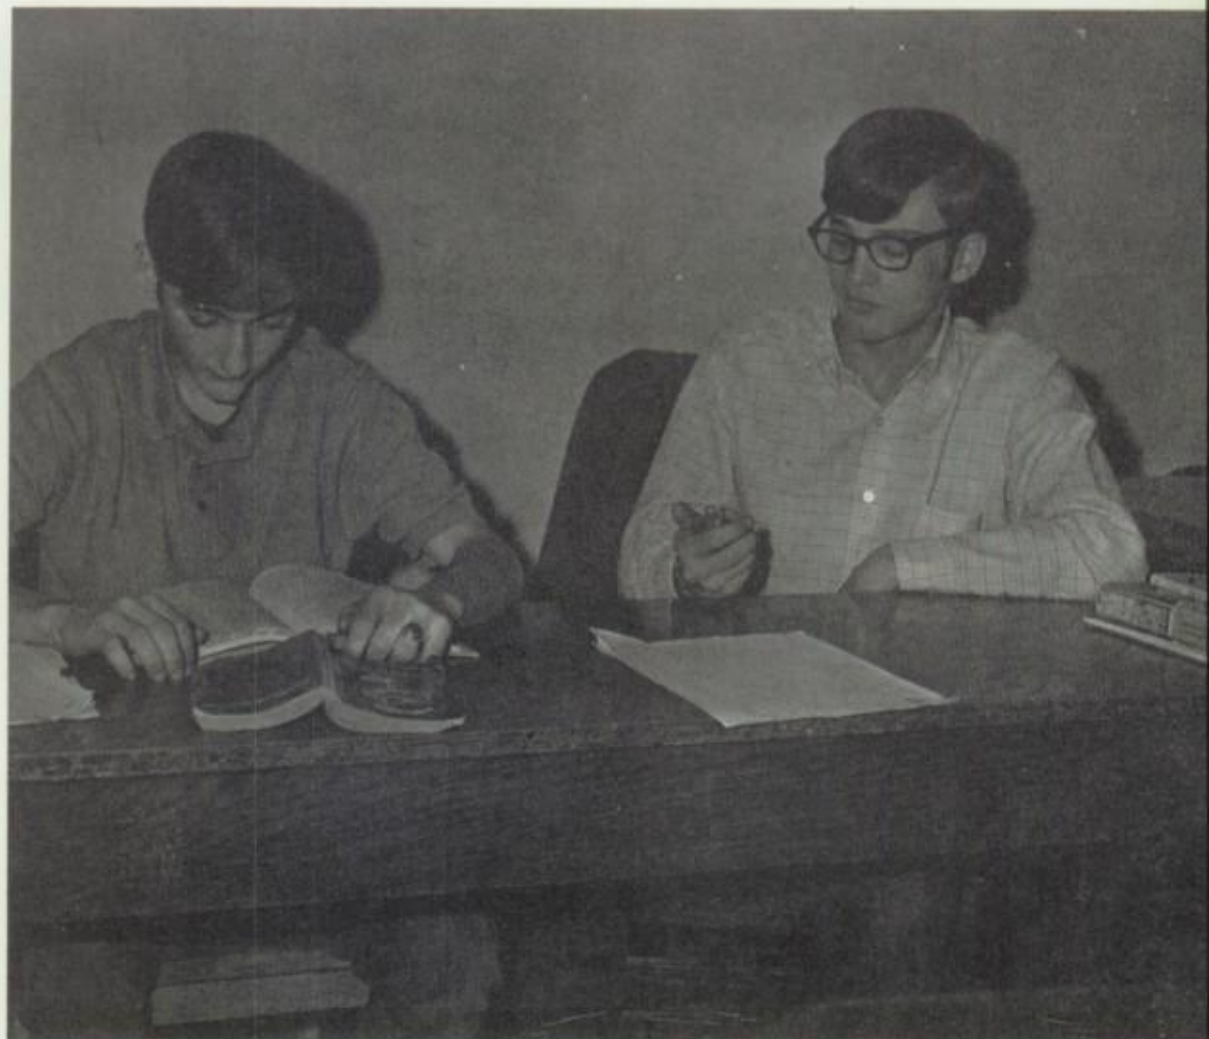

Students wishing to obtain their licenses before the age of eighteen had to take a course in driver education. This valuable course instructed teen-agers in the proper use of the automobile. Pupils attended class two days a week and drove one day a week. Each student emerged from this course, either consciously or unconsciously, with a better idea of how a car operates and with more confidence behind the wheel.

The goals of the reading lab seemed different from those of driver education. Both, however, tried to improve a skill that would be useful later on in life. In the case of reading lab, speed, comprehension, and vocabulary made up the three main goals of each student.

Achievements Talented Students Receive Recognition

A record total of nine Central students qualified as National Merit Semifinalists this year because of their high scores on the qualifying test. In order to become finalists, they took the SAT test and filled out a comprehensive questionnaire.

Elected by his junior class, Rick Marsh represented Central at Boys' State near Des Moines for one week in June. There he became acquainted with the functioning of state government.

La Sertoma Club again gave a youth service award to a deserving Central senior. This year the honor went to Pat Forney. Among her many activities, she served as president of Hi-Tri and vice-president of Student Council.

Nicki Nystrom became Central's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow this year. She became eligible for scholarships on the state and national levels.

On February 8, four Central choir members journeyed to the Northwest Iowa Choral Festival in Cherokee. Those chosen for the trip included Beth Gordon, Seri Hansen, Jerry Haggin, and Paul Rath.

The choice of joining--belonging . . .
 Join or not, we belong.
 No longer a question of what's good-- but what is best.
 Journeying through life, we decide what is best for us.
 We find unity through groups--
 People alike, yet individuals.
 Each person working for--a purpose . . .
 school spirit, entertainment,
 service, promotion . . .
 All talents and abilities combined-- into one.
 Views broadened--individuals enriched-- interests expanded . . .
 Completing our education.
 Unifying the Castle, are our clubs--
 Made up of people,
 Retained through memories.

Student Council

Student Council Promotes Unity

As in previous years Student Council strove for student-faculty unity and activated students in school projects. The council's first project, Homecoming, proved a huge success. Such benefits as blood donations, student directories, bus trips, and scholarships were all made possible by the active council.

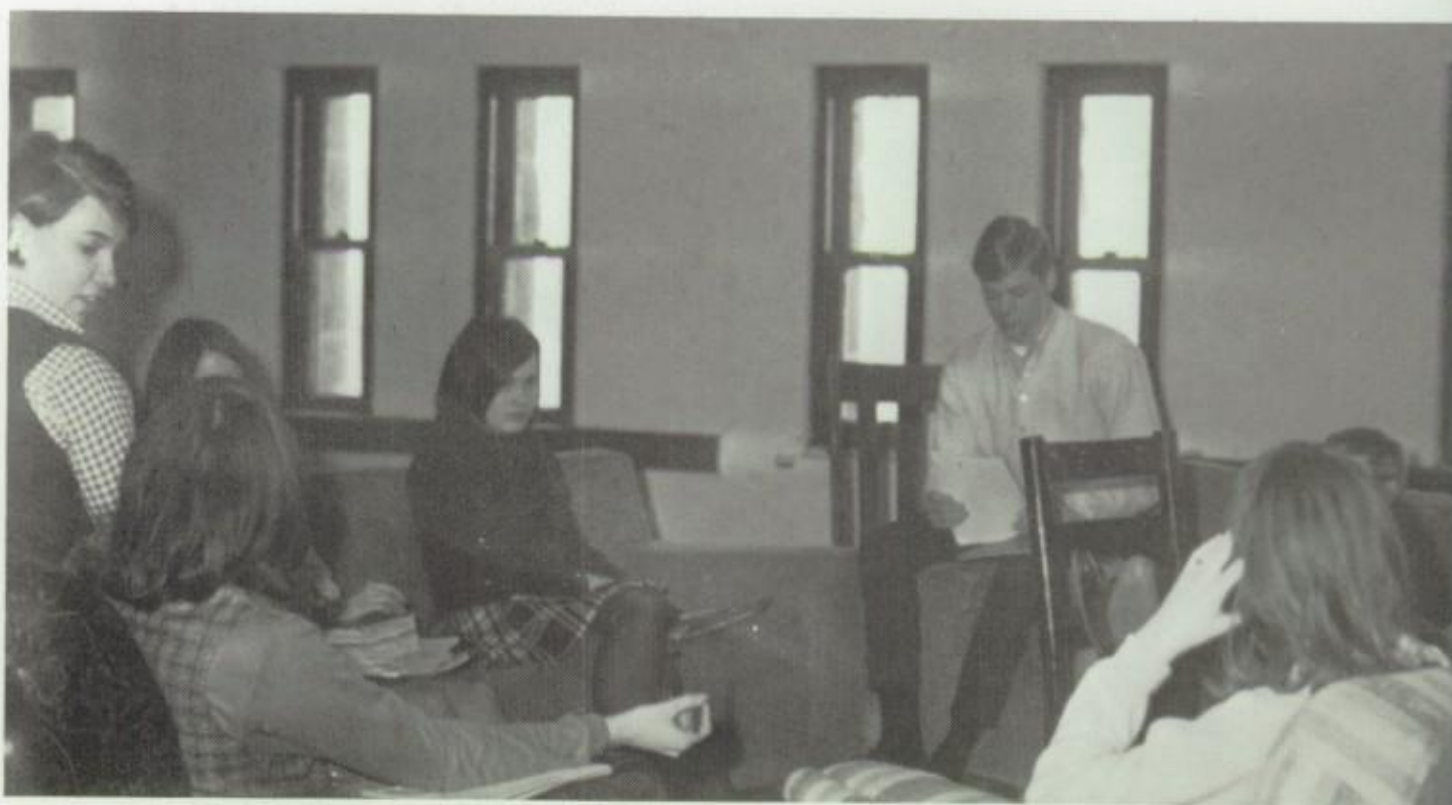

Working under the leadership of President Rick Boswell, Vice-president Pat Forney, Secretary Kathy Kemp, and Treasurer Mark Ginsburg, homeroom representatives met once a month in General Assembly. The assembly provided a place for business to be discussed. Executive Council, student council officers and class officers, formed the governing body.

The Inter-club Council proved an important part of Student Council. The presidents of all clubs presided at meetings which organized the semester break dance and work shifts for the supply store.

Presenting two new amendments, officers preside over an active meeting of the General Assembly.

Friendship Central Girls Make Friendship Active

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Clemens, Friendship Club completed another successful year by promoting good will and friendship among Central girls.

The added variety of both first and second semester officers brought many new ideas into such club activities as supporting a man in Glenwood, building a Homecoming float, collecting canned goods at Christmas, and staging two important assemblies, May Queen and Sweetheart. Mary Ellen Jones, President, enlightened Thursday bimonthly meetings with programs on beauty care. Offering much appreciated support, members kept Friendship united and active.

Inner Circle Inner Circle Sparks Club Participation

Consisting of twenty to twenty-six girls, Inner Circle, the governing body of Friendship, worked hard to organize Central girls into a functioning unit. During the first semester two sophomores and four juniors became elected, while four sophomores and four juniors joined the ranks at the end of the second semester.

Forming the real core of Friendship Club, Inner Circle girls put forth a genuine effort to make the club the best ever. The planning of meetings, committees, and assemblies all came under Inner Circle activities, with Senior Farewell and initiation highlighting the year.

Pep Pep Club Bounces Back with Spirit

Under the leadership of President Jeri Barnum, Pep Club kept the ball rolling this year by promoting an incomparable school spirit. Successfully organizing a card section, Pep brought a more responsive backing to school functions. The sale of Pep sweaters proved a major money-making project and unified the appearance of all members. Showing much hard work on the part of the club, posters always decked Central's halls during the week preceding a game. The Homecoming tricycle brigade, the AAC-Pep football game and a car caravan highlighted changes in club activities.

Vice-president Pat McDonald, Secretary Barb Call, and Treasurer Kathy Anderson contributed much assistance in planning and executing the bi-monthly meetings. Pep's advisor, Miss Sperry, guided Pep Club to one of its most successful years.

Promote Sportsmanship

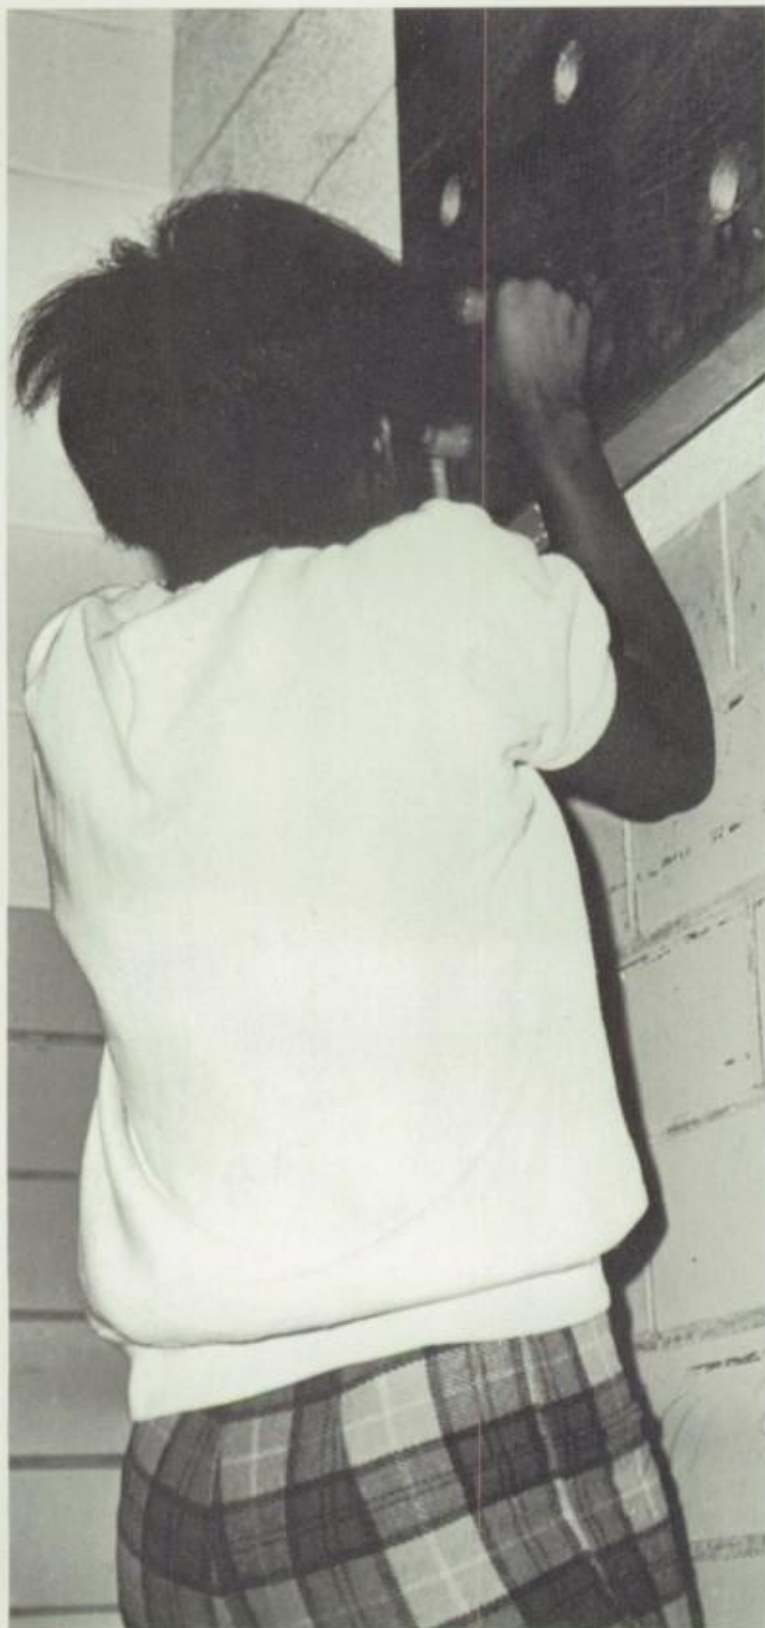

Under the direction of Coach Stanley, Athletic Awards Club met on Friday mornings in room A223 in order to program activities and consume doughnuts and milk.

First semester officers, President Charles Hankins, Vice-President Rick Marsh, Secretary-Treasurer Kathi Fethke, and Sergeant-at-Arms Steve Schneider and second semester officers, President Paul Johnson, Vice-President Jay Hoselton and Robin Larimer, Secretary-Treasurer Kathi Fethke, and Sergeant-at-Arms Dan Fields, led the members which consisted of all major letter winners and varsity cheerleaders in various activities. These included the traditional sale of mums at Homecoming, two fun-nights, and the annual spring picnic. The members voted to spend five-hundred dollars on a whirlpool for all athletic teams as their main project of the year.

Furthering good sportsmanship and athletics for girls, Girls Recreation Association met after school every other Tuesday in room A223.

Under the guidance of Mrs. MacIver and Miss Wilcox, and led by first semester officers, President Barb Baker, Vice-President Naomi Matsushige, Secretary Linda Smith, Treasurer Amy Badstram, and Point Secretary Connie Bledsoe, the club sponsored the Northwest District Playday, swimming nights, volleyball, bowling, and tennis games, picnics, and parties at Halloween and Christmas time. Working for points toward the GRA pin, the girls handed out programs at all football games and sold programs for the Central-East football game.

Band Band Entertains, Stimulates Public

Under the expert guidance of Mr. Brooks and Mr. Lockner, Central's band provided an important aspect of Castle life. Meeting first period every day, reporting for individual instruction, and braving the cold at Gilman during football season exemplifies the band's hard work and dedication.

Participating in the Rivercade Parade, marching in Central's homecoming parade and area college's also, the balloon-day parade, a bus trip to Sioux Falls, and numerous football halftimes constituted fall performances while pep band, led by student directors Pat Forney and Gunnar Lonson, fired up the crowd during the cage season. Spring plans included a visit to the junior highs, a concert at Central and another concert in Sioux Falls.

Orchestra

Orchestra Provides Musical Enjoyment

Under the supervision of Mr. Pitts, orchestra members met first period in room A333 to advance their musical education and to practice for coming performances. Meeting daily, the string instruments combined forces with the winds for full orchestra practice every Tuesday and Thursday. Supplying cultural entertainment for all students, the orchestra conducted two concerts, the Christmas program and the spring concert, at Central during the year. Other orchestral activities consisted of senior baccalaureate and concert tours.

Choir

Vocalists Exhibit Diligence, Talent

Under the leadership of director Mr. Larson, several hundred students organized the vocal groups which contributed widely to the spectrum of Central life.

Modern Choir entertained service clubs, church groups, and private organizations, while Concert Choir staged formal programs, such as the Christmas song-fest on Channel 9 Television. The full choir and Girls' Ensemble supplemented these two choral groups in the production of several school concerts.

The choir students dedicated themselves to the study of music. Many extra hours of work produced perfection of harmony, advanced technique, and enriched young voices.

Boys' Technique Boys Learn New Voice Concepts

Musical Achievements

Musicians Receive Recognition

Superior music students participated in the Northwest Band Festival held in Cherokee on February 1, after trying out for chair placement the preceding fall in Storm Lake. Chosen by Mr. Brooks, the five students, Leslie Haggerty, Jean Jacobson, David Ocker, Lynn Pringle, and Steve Sparks presented an evening performance after a grueling day of practice.

Several band members also competed for first chair placement at Augustana College for a concert given in the fall with Leslie Haggerty the only member placing.

Twirling

Twirler Showmanship Livens Performances

Headed by Mrs. MacIver, a class of forty twirlers met Mondays and Wednesdays first period to improve individual skills and prepare performances. Tryouts held in the spring of 1968 yielded a field of twenty flags and twenty batons, the highest scoring ten in each group composing the football season twirlers. Other tryouts held before the basketball season and spring marching season produced new teams to entertain audiences.

Braving early morning hours and cold autumn weather, the girls met with the band at Gilman to prepare for football halftimes. They also accompanied the band in many area parades, including Morningside's Homecoming, Balloon Day, Central's Homecoming, and a bus trip to Sioux Falls to march in Augustana's Homecoming. During the winter months, the twirlers awed basketball fans as they exhibited their skills in halftimes. Spring plans included more parades and twirling for the City's junior highs.

Centralettes Drill Team Steps Out with Style

Chosen from a field of some seventy girls, twenty Centralettes, with the aid of Miss Sperry, met first period every other day to create, synchronize, and perfect routines for various performances. Their labors with the band payed off in several parades, unforgettable routines during football season, and entertainment for basketball fans.

Centralettes added a new look to their uniforms and at the same time made cold weather marching more bearable with the purchasing of identical white sweaters.

Tryouts, held in May, 1968, tested the girls' marching form and ability to perform cartwheels and splits, leaving the top twenty to fill this year's positions.

Gymnastics

Gymnastic Team Perfects Skills

Working together sixth period on Tuesdays and Thursdays and often before and after school, the gymnastic team concentrated on personal improvement as well as group development. The senior team, including nine regulars and four alternates, aided the twenty members of the sophomore team in the mastering of basic gymnastic skills.

Each of the girls, specializing in either the balance beam, uneven bars, horse, or free floor exercise did performances for both football and basketball halftimes. Concentrating mainly on self-improvement, the soph team made one appearance, providing entertainment during a sophomore B-ball halftime.

Last spring judges chose these girls according to their ability to perform basic tumbling stunts such as hand-springs, walkovers, and splits, and on a creative, original routines.

Record

Record Staff Keeps Students Informed

Centralites owed the 1968 RECORD staff a big thanks this year for keeping the student body so well informed, not only on school activities but also on national issues. Under advisers Mr. Lenagh and Mr. Bohner, the staff worked laboriously to finish and distribute the paper by sixth period every other Friday. All members met daily in room 119 sixth period to combine their efforts into a unified and journalistic production. Striving for perfection, the staff even worked during the evening.

Annual Staff View Year in Retrospect

Meeting sixth period Monday through Friday and often on weekends, some thirty imaginative Centralites worked earnestly to create a treasure house of memories entitled the MAROON and WHITE. Under the expert guidance of Mr. Pietens, Advisor, and Co-editors Gayle Evans and Robbie Smith, the staff carefully recorded the many aspects of Castle life. Throughout the year, the hardworking students employed several new methods and ideas with the hope of producing the best Annual ever.

Language, Debate Clubs Linguists, Debaters Broaden Horizons

Central students found innumerable ways in which to broaden their scope of knowledge and pursue their interests.

Students of various Latin backgrounds participated in Latin Club meetings, which took place during the sixth-period class. Sponsor Mr. McGill demonstrated practical use of the language. All had a part in planning the annual Latin banquet.

Spanish clubs for advanced students, sponsored by Mr. Pappas and Mrs. Malcom, met once a month during class periods. The president conducted business meetings, after which the vice-president presented programs entirely in Spanish. Pupils sought to become more familiar with the language through songs, games, reports, and discussion during the meetings. One of the most gala, the Christmas party, climaxed with the breaking of the pinata.

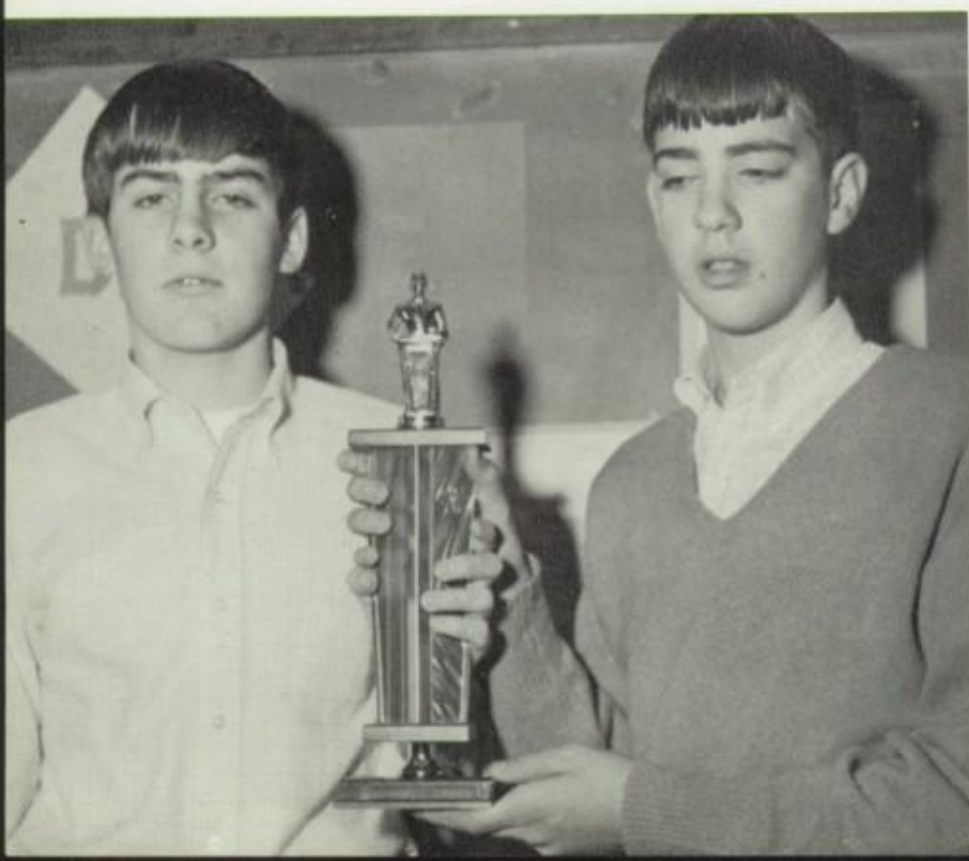

Fourteen diligent Centralites formed the Central Debate Club, one of the school's most active organizations. Debaters practiced daily in Room 319 during sixth period and worked for long hours after and on weekends in preparation for tournaments. Sponsor Mrs. Hansen accompanied her troupe to places near and far, such as Lincoln, Nebraska, Orange City, Iowa, and Sioux Falls, South Dakota, to name only a few.

Central Students Promote Fellowship

Advised by Mr. Rogstad and capably led by President Sue Sleeper and Vice-President Kris Thompson, I.R.C. participated in two foreign exchange programs, American Field Service and Youth for Understanding, sponsoring a student through each organization. Throughout the year the club sought to aid foreign exchange programs, publicize foreign students at Central, and further the understanding of people all over the world.

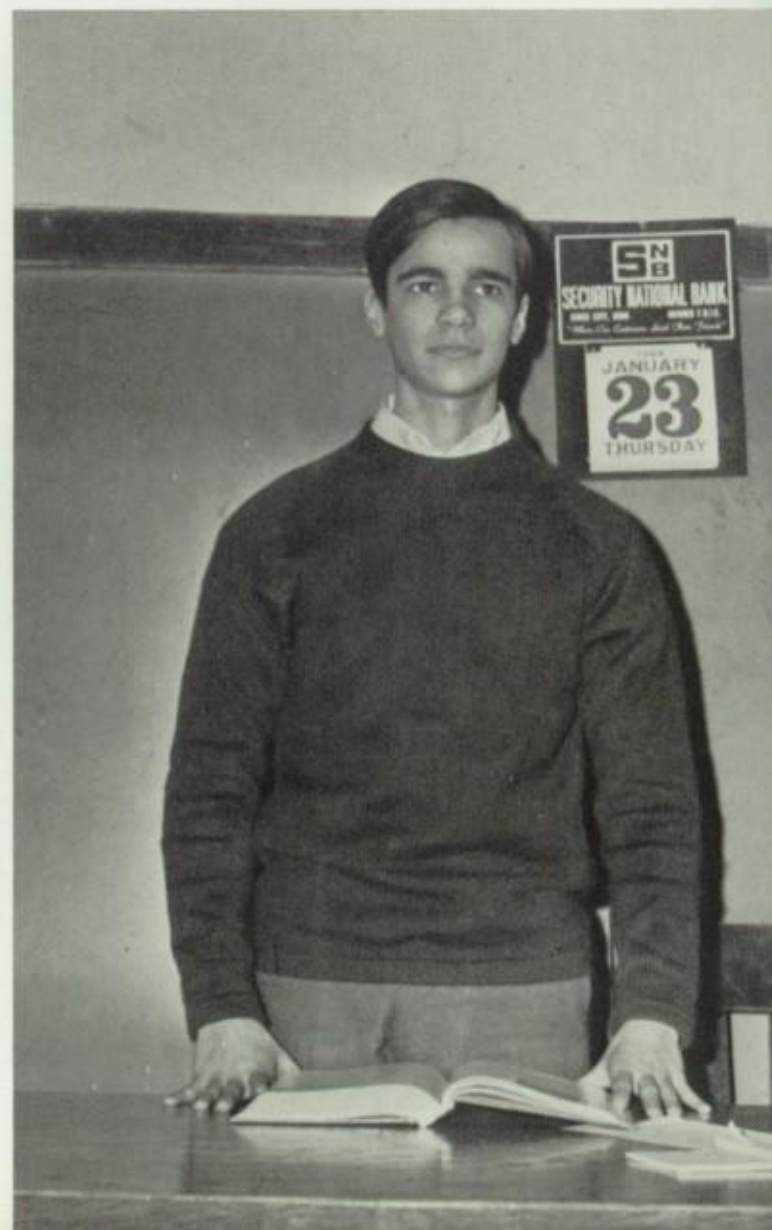

Sponsored by the Reverend Robert Falk, the sixty members of Youth For Christ met Wednesday mornings before school in the Little Theatre. Money-raising projects during the year included car washes, candy and bake sales, and collecting pop bottles. Funds obtained from these activities paid for the club's homecoming float, which won the Sweepstakes Prize, and a banquet honoring the seniors at the end of the year.

Chess, Aviation Clubs Develop New Interests

Throughout the year, Central's Chess Club, led by President Tom Sibley, Vice-President David Ocker, and Secretary-Treasurer Mike Kahoe, held informal meetings almost every night after school. Mr. McGill, advisor, aided the club in its activities as the members learned how to play various types of chess and planned chess tournaments with the other city high schools.

Again this year Mr. Thielman advised the Aviation Club, helping the members learn the basic ground aspects of flight such as weather, computer operation, navigation, instrumentation, and regulation. Meeting Tuesdays and Thursdays after school, the club planned activities which included an introductory flight, a trip to the weather bureau, and a paper plane contest.

Y-Clubs Y-Clubs Promote Community Service

Upholding high goals, Hi-Y and Hi-Tri fulfilled their basic purpose of aiding various community groups. Both clubs promoted community service and fellowship among students.

Under the sponsorship of Mike Norris and Mr. Pitkin, Hi-Y completed such service projects as money donations to the United Fund, the U.S. Olympic Team, and the YMCA. Activities included dances, intramural basketball games, and trips to sports events.

Nearly one hundred girls participated in Hi-Tri this year under the leadership of Miss Flinginger. After the selling of pop and candy to float builders, other year highlights included a Mother's Tea, Christmas gifts to a children's home, and the Holy Week services.

Jay Hoselton--Chaplain, Steve Schneider--Vice-president, and Ron Linn--Secretary antagonize President Carlton Smith as he tries to discuss Hi-Y plans.

T.A.R.'S, T.A.D.'S

Politics Stimulates Student Activities

With 1968 as an election year, student activities broadened to the scope of politics. Two new clubs, Teenage Democrats and Teenage Republicans, formed at Central during the year.

Meeting after school, T.A.D.'s helped plan and promote the Hughes Day rally. Aside from group participation, many members did individual campaigning for their candidates.

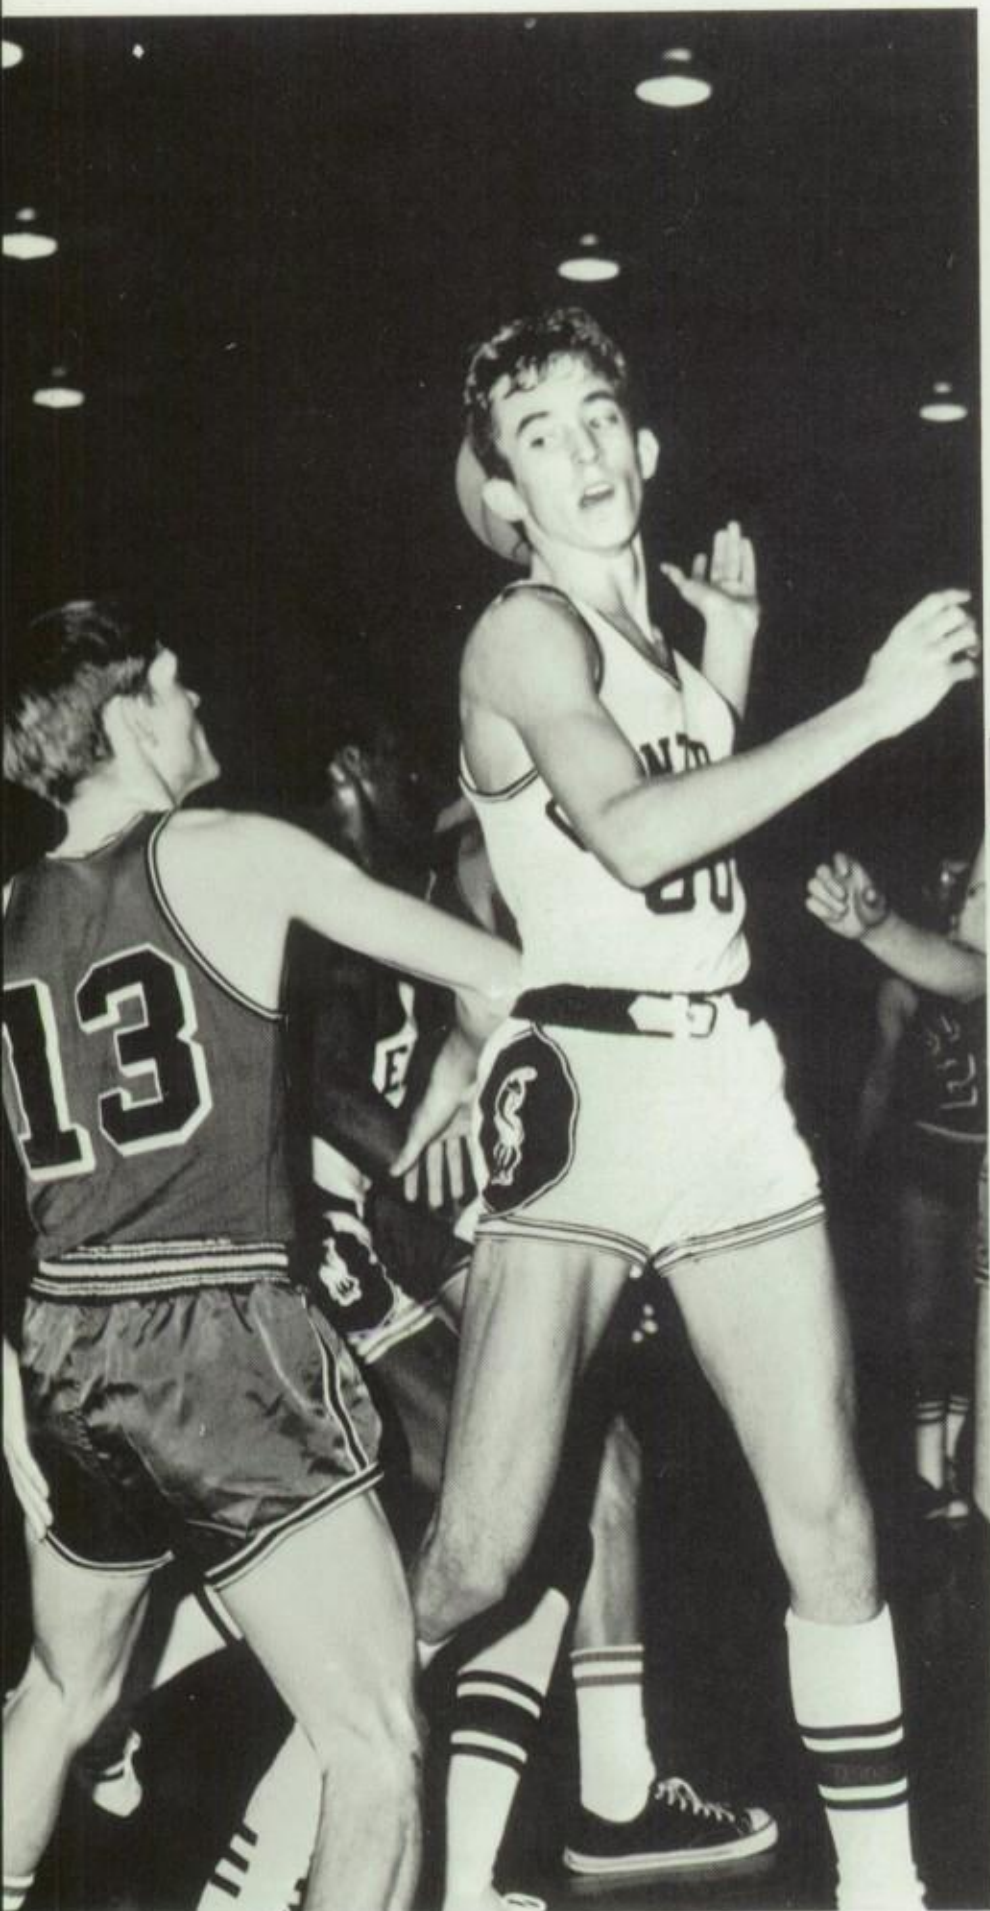

Although T.A.R.'s duties remained much the same as those of the Young Democrats, special activities proved part of political business. A trip to Des Moines to see Nixon, a float in the Homecoming parade, and campaigning at headquarters held particular interest for students.

Holding an officers meeting, President Kris Thompson explains Young Democrat plans for Hughes Day to Vice-president Randy Rissman and Secretary Sherri Madsen.

Election night found Young Republicans anxiously watching election returns.

T.A.R.'s officers: Robbi Smith--Secretary, Laura Verstegan--President, and Rory Kelly--Vice-president, give one another a slap for Republican victory.

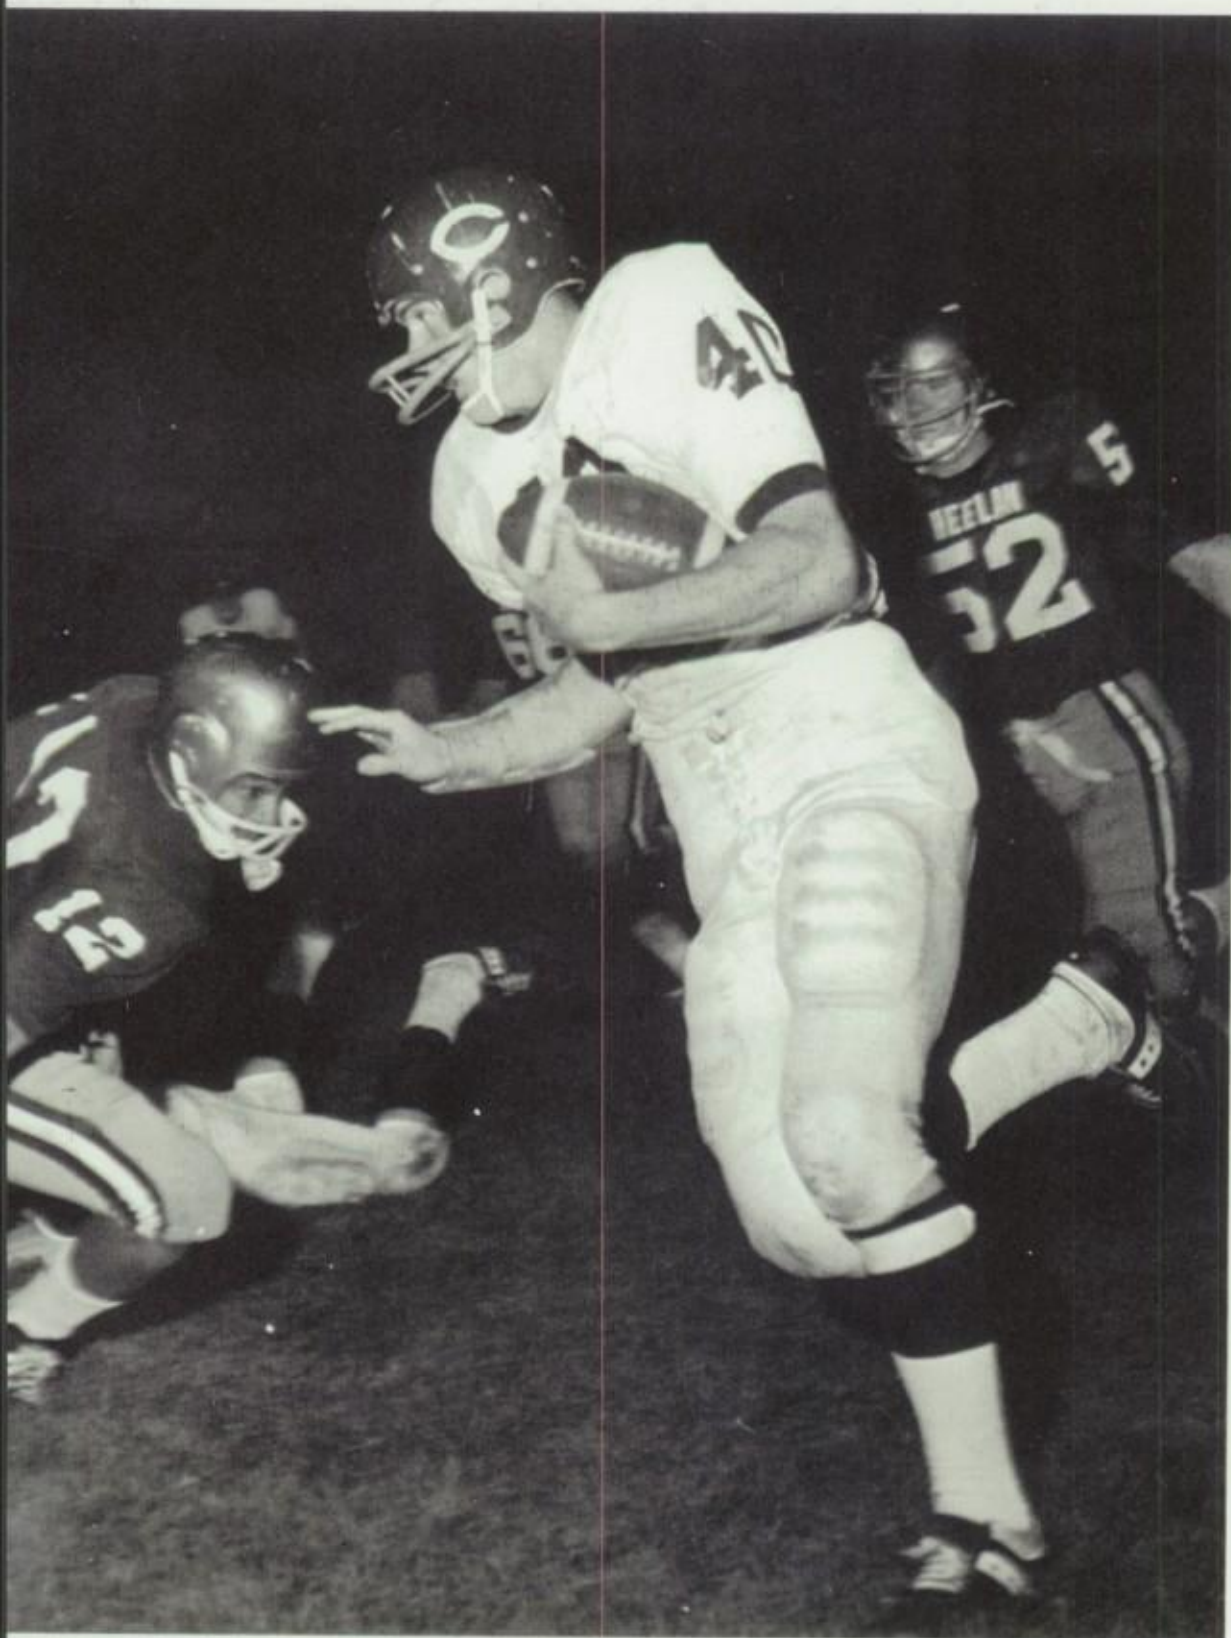

Excitement, then despair--rippling
Through the crowded masses of humanity
Thrills of competition and achievement expressed on faces.

Spirit, drive, agility--
The never give-up attitude
Expressed in teamwork and cooperation.
The sacrifice of self-glory for a team gain.

Learning, achieving, polishing, fulfilling--
All preparation for the test,
That of ability against the peers.
Keeping our pride . . .

Through--
Discovery of exhilaration with each victory,
And pain with every defeat.

Cross-Country

Harriers Display Potential Strength

Seniors Rob Larimer and Paul Johnson co-captained this year's cross country team, the largest in Castle history. Although Coach Bob Provorse termed this season as below par, the harriers did capture four first place trophies.

Starting the year, junior Kent Heeringa came in first to aid Central's victory over East in a mile dual. Finishing fourth and sixth, respectively, sophomore Bill Dible and Heeringa led the team to third place at the State Mile Team Race. The J.V. traveled to Harwarden for the West Sioux Invitational and carried off first place honors, with junior Scott Chausee placing second. At the annual Tom Rivers meet, both varsity and junior varsity accepted second place trophies. Although Central's placing at the State X-C Meet proved unimpressive, the performance by Rob Larimer brought him a thirteenth place finish.

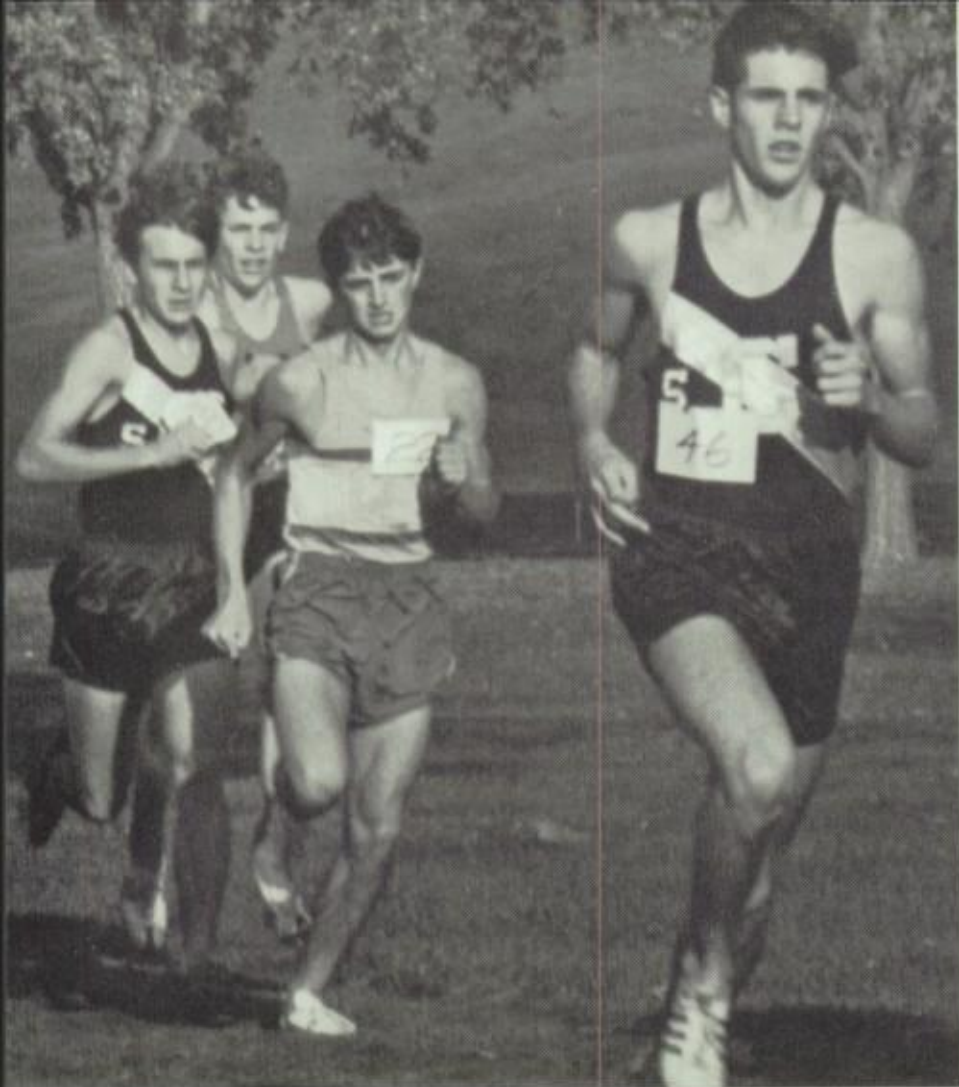

Conserving energy for a fast finish co-captain Robin Larimer out-psychoes his opponents.

Amid kicking feet and deadly elbows, Central emerges leaving all other teams behind.

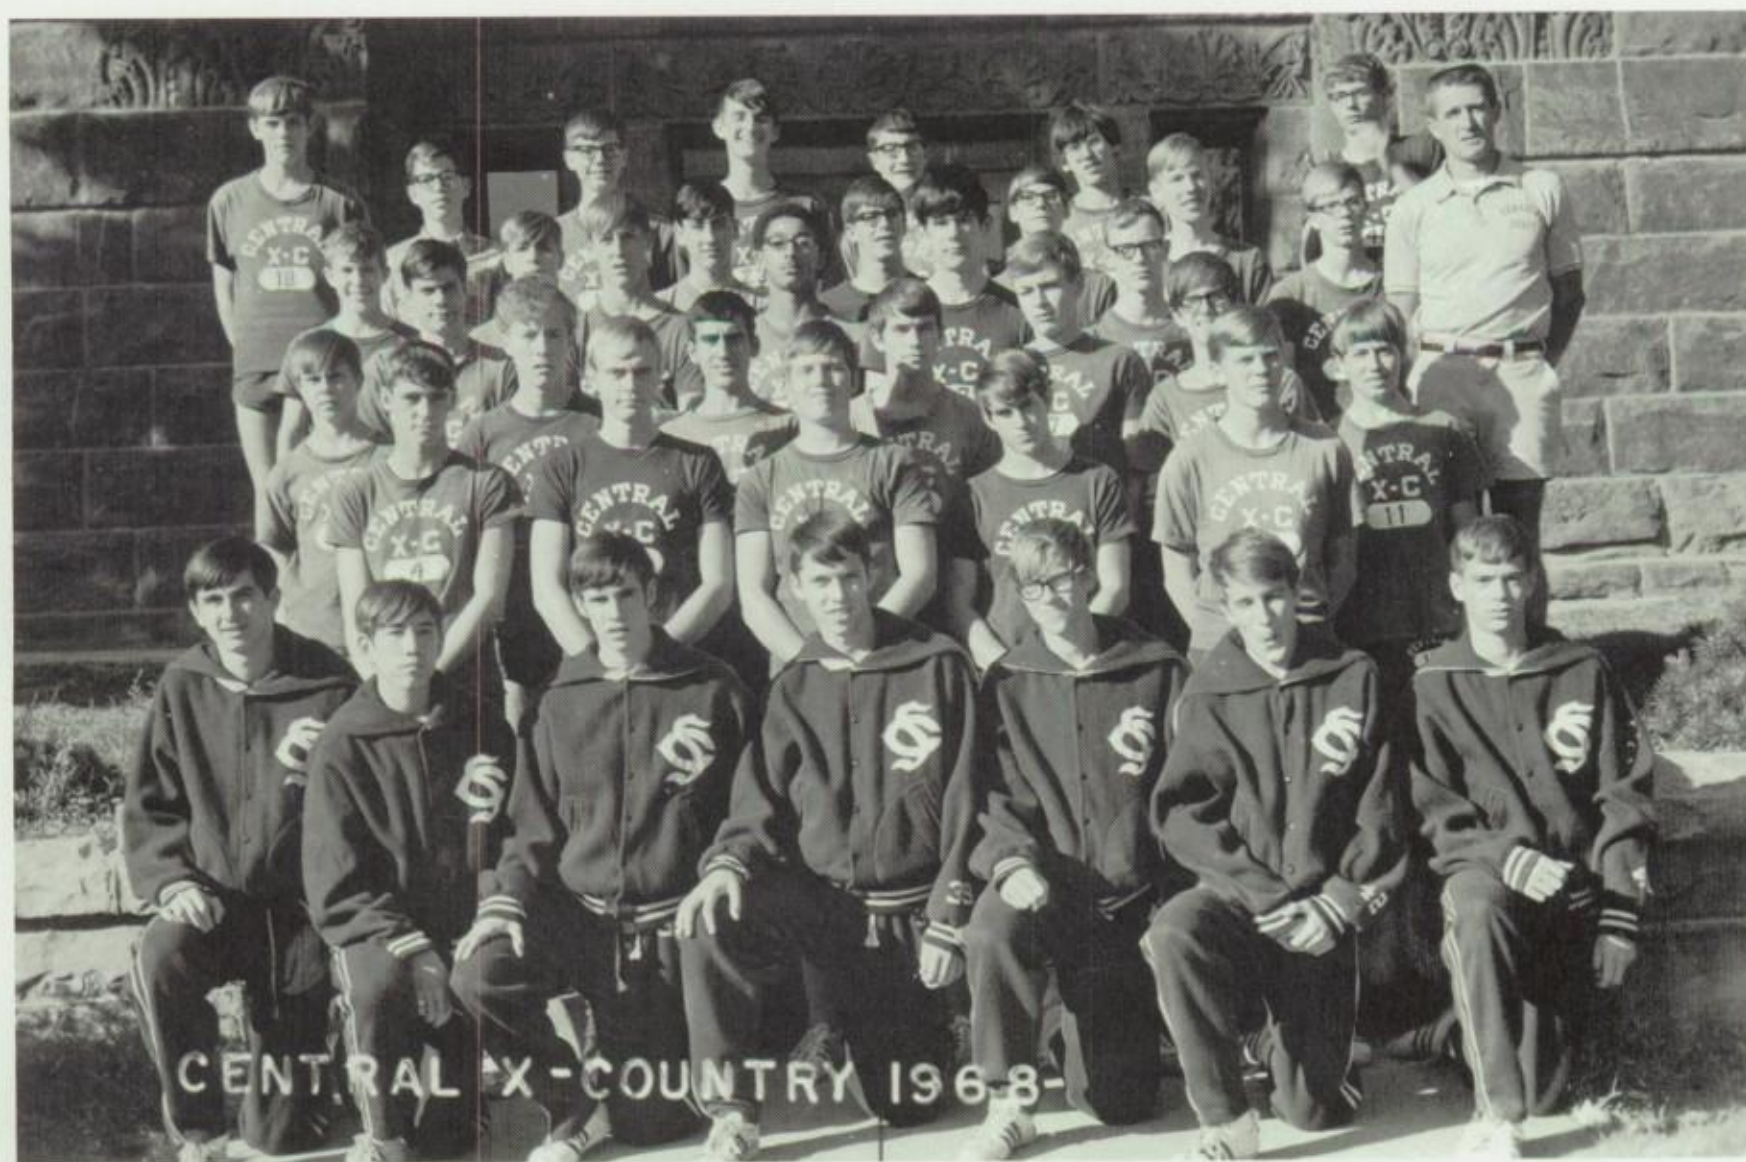

Attempting to keep his position, co-captain Paul Johnson sets an exhausting pace.

Bill Dible strides for a first while Scott Chausee attempts a one-two finish.

Central's cross-country runners, Pat Thomas, Mike Chan, and Dave Lapse, strain for a fast time.

Football

Gridders Achieve 5—2—1 Record

Off to a slow start, Sherman Wolleson's football team finished in high gear as a Northwest Iowa power. With twenty-one returning lettermen, many excellent juniors, and the help of coaches Stanley and Lafferty, the team achieved a 5--2--1 record.

The highlight of the season occurred at our homecoming when the Little Maroons defeated Sioux Falls Washington 48--0 in revenge for last year's loss.

Central's strong defense held their opponents to a mere ninety-two points while crossing the goal line for 176 themselves. With nine touchdowns, Mike Reed led his teammates with most points. The team boasted All-Stater Leo Heilman, while John Renner, Don Shaffer, and Reed received city recognition.

Excellent pursuit on the part of Central's defense enables them to gang tackle an East ball carrier.

Sophomores Display 5—2 Season Record

Crediting their accomplishments to team unity and high spirit, Coaches VanderWeil and Pitkin praised the sixty-six man sophomore team. Strong on defense, the team never lost confidence and pulled through with many impressive victories. Losing only two games and both by six points or less, the sophomores, with a few breaks, might have finished with a perfect record. Consequently, Central's varsity can look forward to some fine additions from the sophomore squad.

Grapplers Grab

8—5 Record

Determination to win prevailed throughout the wrestling season and the Central grapplers finished on top boasting an 8--5 record. Coach Don Pitkin guided his matmen through tough competition, and co-captains Ron Georgeson and Charlie Hankins sparked their teammates with impressive upsets. Qualifying eight Central wrestlers to district, Ron Georgeson, Charlie Hankins, Gary Fisher, Greg Stevens, Russ Davis, Greg Reinking, and John Renner, only Hankins and Georgeson survived the competition and traveled to the state meet. Although half the team graduates this year, Coach Pitkin will have no trouble lining up a winning squad from the returning lettermen and junior varsity.

Basketball

Inconsistent Cagers Wind Up Season 10—9

The Little Maroons, coached by Wally Piper and Eugene Speraw, started out the season in good form by beating state champs Storm Lake in an opening game. However, Central then suffered seven straight losses, which proved a great anxiety to the home fans. With tremendous teamwork and a triggered fast-break, the cagers emerged to win nine in a row. These included a devastating victory over top-rated rival Heelan, 74--50, and a hot overtime game against Sioux Falls Lincoln, 67--63.

Unfortunately, the great hope for state play, raised by the tremendous comeback of the team, died at the hands of pressure-playing Heelan. Next year's outlook appears bright with five lettermen returning with much experience to lead the winning spirit back into CHS basketball.

Jim Hughes out-maneuvers his Heelan opponents and lays the ball up untouched.

The cagers set up their 2-3 zone defense which proved successful throughout the season.

Posing on the Castle hardboards, Central's energetics Roxanne Lara, Sherry Evans, Connie Coyle, Sue Jones, Anita Krone and Susie Jacobs display their vitality.

Under the direction of Coach Gerald Lafferty, the sophs rallied to establish a 13--5 record for the season. Plenty of hustle and desire characterized the team, and an ample bench reserve backed up the starting five. Twenty boys saw action, led by Tom DeMers, Ken Miller, and Phil Kalin, who advanced to varsity at mid-season. Coach Lafferty stressed defense this year because the offense proved able to take care of itself.

Spunky sophs, Nancy Levine, Carole Suttie, Debbie Lohry, Jeri Naven, Bonnie Becklund, and Jean Rider spark their team to a sizzling season.

Central is people--

Administrators, instructors, office workers,
But most of all, students--
The backbone of the Castle,
Its past and future . . .

We fight for individuality from the mass--
However hard,
Wishing to be a name, not a number.
United we stand . . .

Through undisputable loyalty--
Striving for common goals,
The fate of a nation upon us,
We ask for responsibilities.
Divided we fall . . .

Split from competition--
Sophomores, Juniors, Seniors,
All blindly self-concerned,
Thus rivals are developed.

Students--studying, celebrating, socializing--
In these we find, the meaning of the Castle.

Versatility and Ambition Reign Among the Seniors

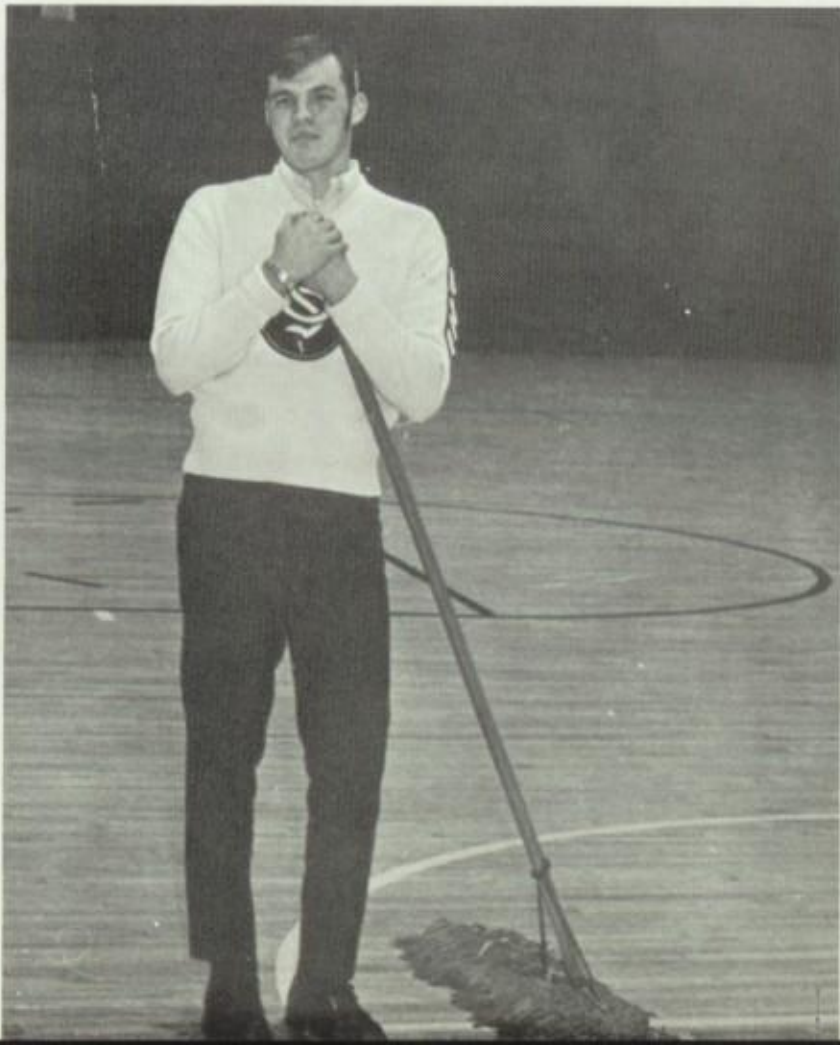

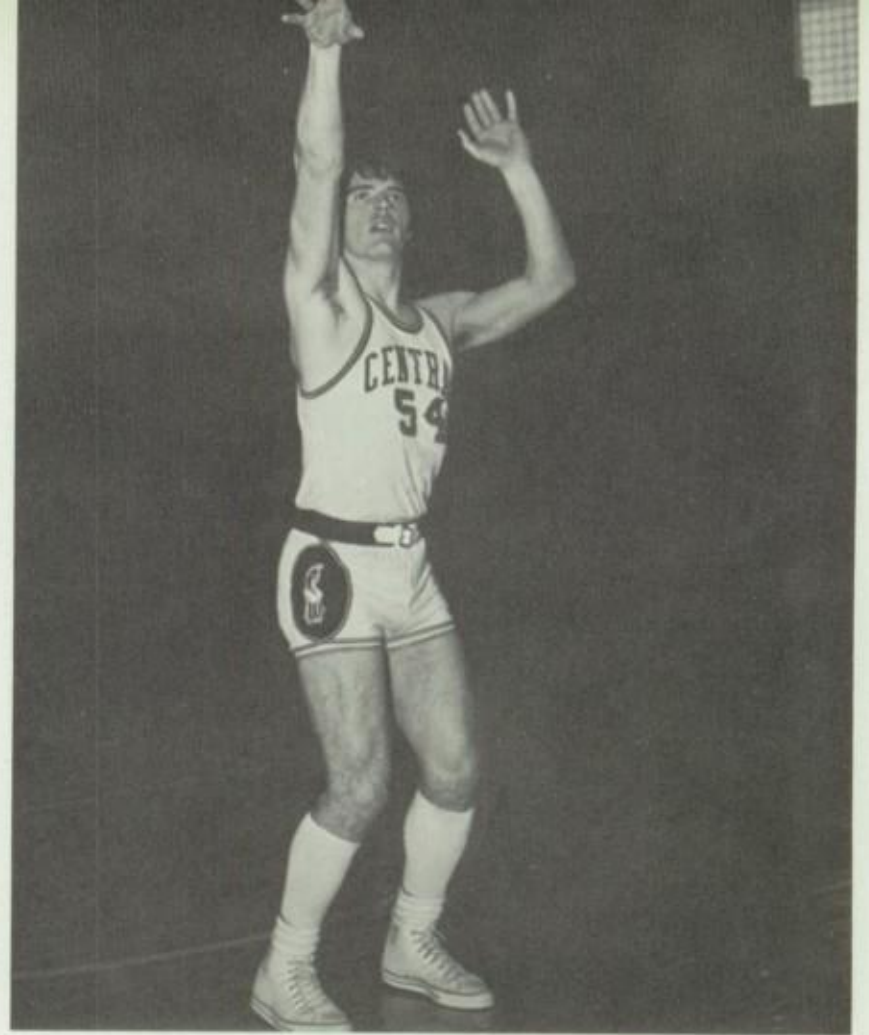

Senior Officers: Stew Hartman, Charlie Hankins, Betsy Caldwell, Dale MacMillan

All for Central

All for Central Honors Seniors

An outstanding athlete in all three major sports, MIKE REED participated in football and basketball for two years, and track for three years. He showed his leadership potential by being an active member in Hi-Y and A.A.C.

Senior KATHI FETHKE gained recognition at Central for her untiring efforts in Friendship, Pep, and Hi-Tri. Kathi also represented the Castle as a swimming and wrestling cheerleader, and as a member of "Centralettes". In recognition of her radiating personality, students elected Kathi secretary-treasurer of A.A.C., May Queen Junior Princess, Lady of the Castle, and Cross-Country Queen.

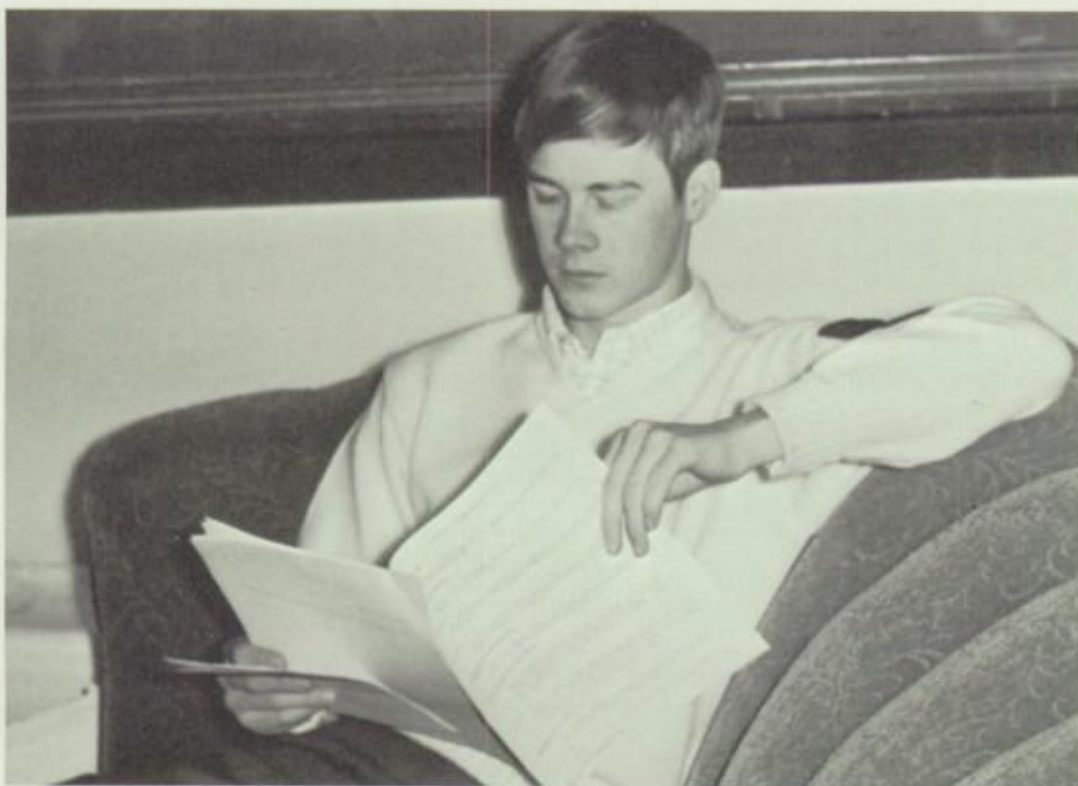

Known for her cheerful attitude and unending pep, BARB CALL entertained many basketball crowds as a twirler for three years. Besides being a member of Friendship, Inner Circle, choir, Hi-Tri, and Student Council, she exhibited her leadership ability as Pep secretary, and her vivaciousness as tenth grade May Queen attendant, eleventh grade Junior Princess, and a Homecoming attendant.

A truly all-around Centralite, RICK MARSH participated in almost every phase of Castle life. He belonged to the basketball team during his sophomore and junior years and excelled in football and golf throughout his Central career. Rick demonstrated musical ability in Choir and orchestra. Students recognized his leadership qualities and elected Rick a member of Boy's State and vice-president of A.A.C. Rick also served on the sports staff of the annual.

Setting out to thoroughly enjoy Castle life, JERI BARNUM belonged for three years to band and orchestra, in which she played French horn, and to Pep, Friendship, and Hi-Tri. Centralites elected Jeri to Student Council, Inner Circle, and Inter-Club Council. All enthusiasm, Jeri began her senior year in the capacity of Pep president and soon reigned over the Castle as Homecoming Queen.

As an active participant in Central's organizations, RICK BOSWELL contributed widely during his Central career to the "Teens Talk Up" program, Inter-Club Council, A.A.C., swimming and track teams, and Hi-Y, of which he was elected treasurer. Filling the time- and energy-consuming capacity of student council president, Rick also found time to represent Centralites as a member of Boys' State and as a Knight of the Castle.

SUE SLEEPER found time to enter into almost every aspect of Castle life. Besides participating in Pep, Friendship, and Student Council for three years, she belonged to Inner Circle, annual, and Hi-Tri. Sue became International Relations Club President, vice-president of Spanish Club, sophomore May Queen attendant, and Lady of the Castle.

Athletically inclined HENRIETTA WILLIAMS, known for her energy and enthusiasm, starred in basketball, volleyball, track, and gymnastic intramurals at Central. In her senior year, Henri served the Castle as a football, wrestling, and swimming cheerleader, and joined A.A.C. She also took time to participate in French Club, Friendship, and the youth chapter of the N.A.A.C.F.

Also chosen for the honor of All for Central, senior JIM HUGHES gained recognition in sports for his three years of basketball. Taking time out of his b-ball practices, Jim took an active part in De Molay, Pep, A.A.C., and represented the senior class as Homecoming attendant.

YVONNE KLOPPEL invaded Central High vocal groups during her sophomore year, proved her ability, and became a member of almost every part of the choir program. Beginning in Girls' Chorus, Yvonne soon progressed to Modern Choir and Concert Choir, of which she served as president during her senior year, and performed in the musical "Night on Broadway." A leader in other fields as well, Yvonne belonged to Pep and Friendship.

LEO HEILMAN spent three years playing basketball and one year in track, but his three years playing football established Leo as a star athlete. He was named twice to the All-City Football Team, twice to the All-Northwest Iowa Team, and even to the first team All-State. Leo's classmates recognized him by naming him 1968-69 Homecoming King of the Castle.

In three years at Central, KATHY KEMP managed to find time for French Club, Hi-Tri, Pep Club, student council, Friendship, and Inner Circle. As a senior, Kathy served as Decoration Committee chairman for the Homecoming assembly and devoted hours of valuable time to Central as student council secretary and a member of the annual staff. She also represented her classmates as a Lady of the Castle during Homecoming.

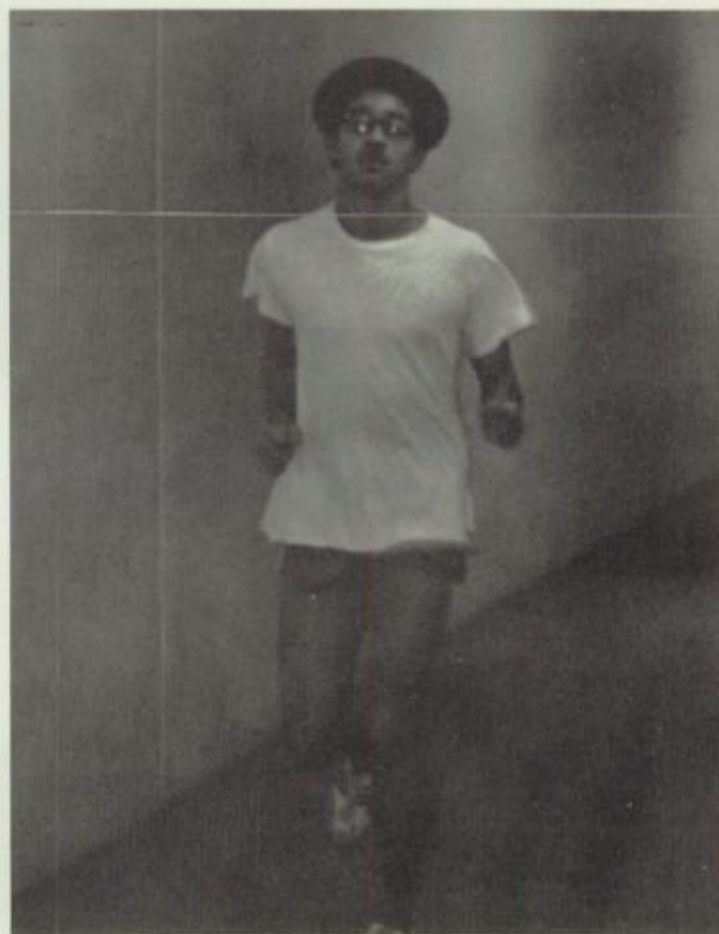

Perpetual motion in the form of MARY ELLEN JONES added an extra spark of life to the Castle. Friendship Club captured a large part of Mary's talent; she served as president of the club during her senior year. However, she found time for Concert Choir, Girls' Ensemble, student council, and Homecoming committees, and squeezed in Pep Club, Hi-Tri, and International Relations Club. Her classmates elected Mary Homecoming Queen attendant.

Faculty Nominates Active Seniors

Striving to make the most of his three years at Central, DAN FIELDS was known throughout Central for his ability in track. Dan entered track and cross-country in his sophomore, junior, and senior years. His membership in Pep accentuated his cheerful attitude at Central.

STU HARTMAN, transferring to Central as a junior, made an everlasting impression on the students and teachers he met. Besides playing football, he became a member of A.A.C. and student council. During Stu's senior year, his classmates honored him with the titles of Senior Class President and Knight of the Castle.

Familiar to all the Castle for her happy attitude, BECKY HOAK, an energetic member of Central's twirling team, Pep Club, Friendship, Hi-Tri, and student council, served as Homecoming Parade chairman and as a member of the annual's indexing staff. Becky was bestowed with the honors of sophomore May Queen attendant and Homecoming Queen attendant.

24 Selected for All for Central

Versatility names senior PATTY WILLIAMS. Enhancing the halls of the Castle, she participated in Pep, Friendship, Inner Circle, Hi-Tri, A.A.C., and student council. Extending her talents even farther, Patty became a varsity cheerleader, cross-country queen, and a Homecoming attendant.

Serving Central at all times, KATHY ANDERSON frequently entered the Castle limelight. Besides participating in Friendship, Hi-Tri, annual, and Student Council, Kathy served as Pep treasurer, Choir secretary, and Spanish Club president.

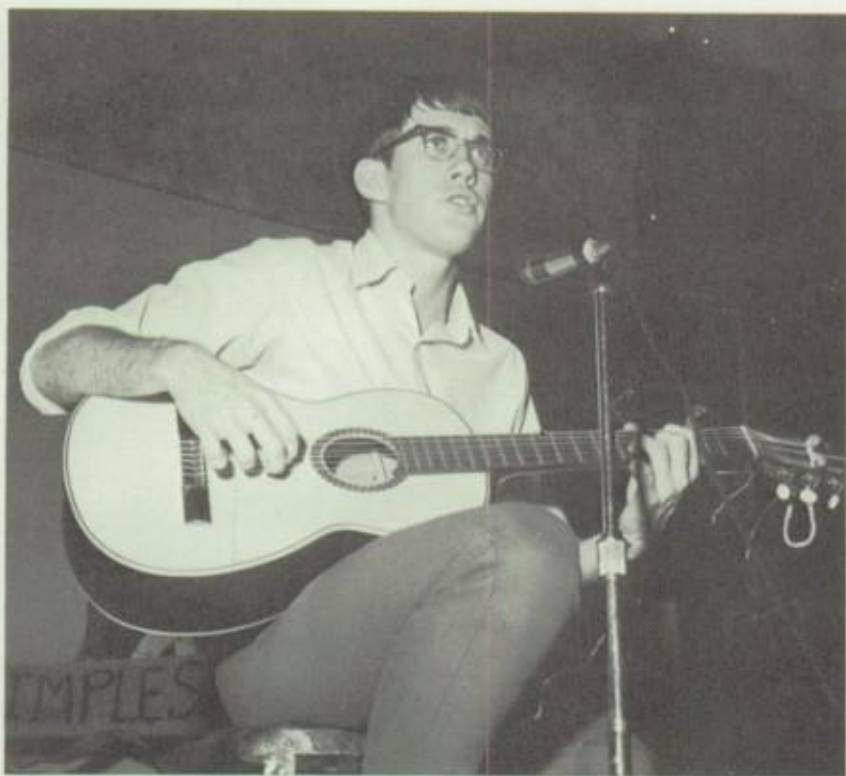

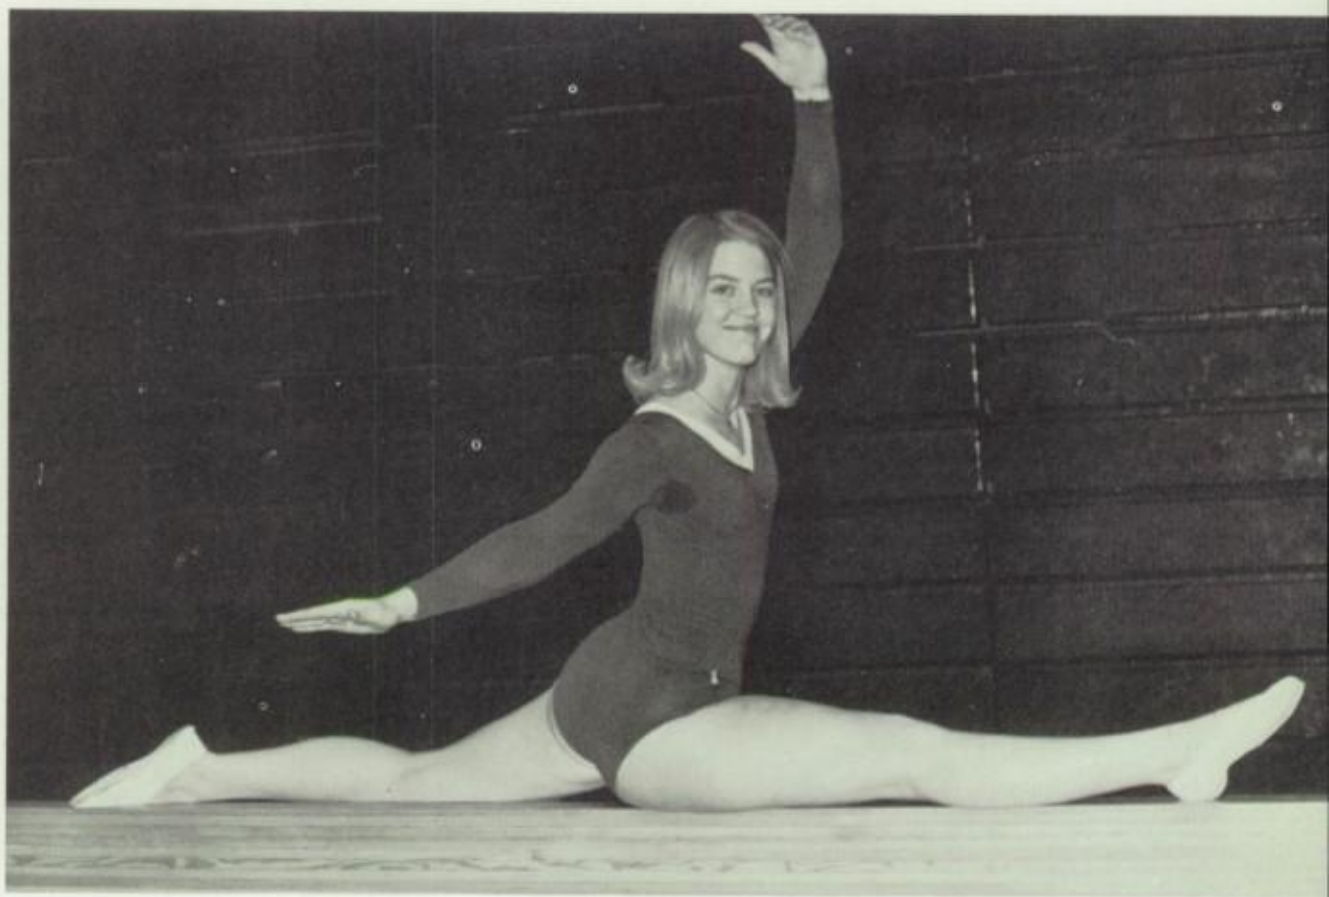

Known for outstanding academic accomplishments, senior BETSY CALDWELL also led basketball cheerleading, reported for the RECORD, and belonged to Pep, Friendship, Inner Circle, and the "Centralettes" drill team. She was elected Homecoming Queen attendant. As Junior Class president, Betsy was elected treasurer of the Iowa Association of Student Councils and continued her interest as secretary of the Senior Class.

Majoring twice in football, three times in wrestling, and lettering once in track kept JOHN RENNER busy for three years. He still had time for A.A.C., and captained both the wrestling and football squads. As a senior, John received the honor of Knight of the Castle.

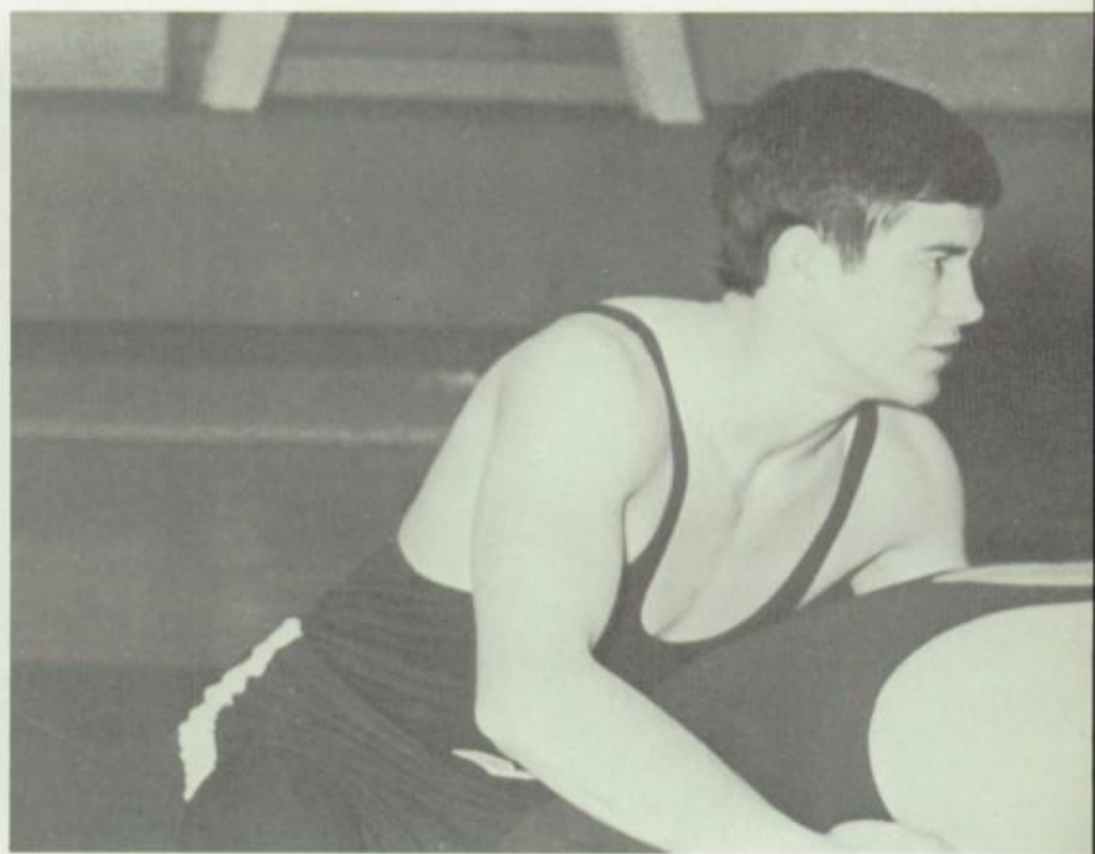

Sociable Centralite ROBBIE SMITH belonged for three years to Hi-Tri, Pep, Friendship, Inner Circle, and student council. As a senior, she gave most of her time to the job of co-editor of the annual, but she also served as secretary-treasurer of T.A.R.s, Homecoming parade committee chairman, and was honored during Homecoming as a Lady of the Castle.

During her three years at the Castle hundreds of Centralites watched PAT FORNEY perform with the gymnastics squad. Just as many students knew of her untiring efforts as vice-president of student council and president of Hi-Tri. Pat also participated in band, orchestra, Pep, and Friendship Club. Taking a special interest in Homecoming, Pat designed her junior class float and directed the building of the senior royalty float.

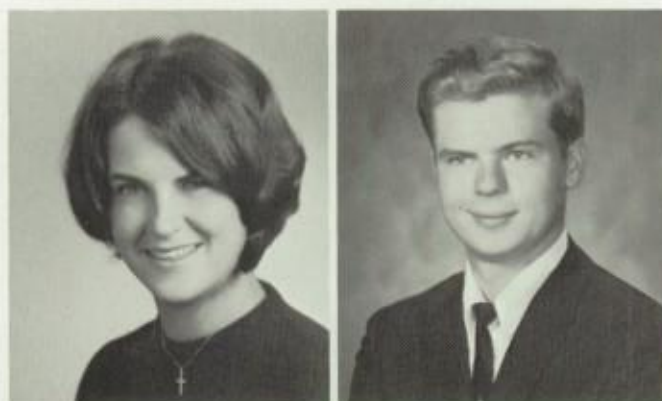

Senior PETE FARLEY found his place at Central in dramatics. As president of Dramatics Club and a member of Thespians, Pete held leading roles in several school plays and was recognized for his part in talent and entertainment assemblies. Pete's excellent voice became a well-known part of his performances. He also belonged to Concert Choir, Writers' Club, and International Relations Club.

CHARLIE HANKINS' quiet manner conceals the athletic prowess that led him to his three majors in wrestling, two letters in football, and one in track. Besides being twice voted captain of the wrestling squad, Charlie also served as president of A.A.C., vice-president of his senior class, and as an active member of the Hi-Y.

Poetry of The Past . . .

A time to remember . . .

We find the beautiful, exciting, and discouraging--

The struggle for success hard and

Ever present in our thoughts,

Memories of expressions and sensations--

still unrecorded . . .

Remembrance of humor, awe, happiness--

The last days, vivid as the first . . .

A year of maturing, learning,

New demands adjusting us to the complex world,

Our school, now an improvement center of mind and body.

Striving for excellence,

Struggling through responsibilities.

Viewing the future,

We're conscious of the great distance ahead.
